Manager Gets Raise New Pact

Kenneth Mahony

Selectmen unanimously voted their support for Town Manager Kenneth Mahony Monday night by granting him a yearly raise of six and one-half percent, plus a negotiation allowance, for the next two years.

The unanimous vote raises Mahony's current base salary of $58,200 to $62,000 for Fiscal Year 1987 (effective July 1, 1986), and adds a $3,000 "negotiation allowance," for a total of $65,000. Figures for FY 1988 will be $66,000 and $4,000, respectively, to total $70,000.

According to selectman John Scileppi, who, with fellow selectman Gerry Silverman, researched and recommended the raise, Mahony receives the "negotiation allowance" as payment for negotiating contracts with town department heads, a duty for which the town had to pay a specialist in past years.

Scileppi praised Mahony for his conscientiousness and said that he considered the board's interaction with him to represent "a very good mix of selectmen and Town Manager."

Chairman William Dalton also delivered a report—which he hoped would become a tradition for future board chairmen—on his year of working with Mahony. He commended the Town Manager for his "extraordinary leadership." He also noted that, although Mahony

Admission To Local Nursery Schools Highly Competitive

By Susan K. O'Neill

Carol Byrne filled out the nursery school registration forms for her three-year-old son Michael the morning she received them in the mail. Then, after Michael and his little brother Alex woke from their naps, she bundled them into her car and drove off to hand-deliver the completed application to the director of Learning, Loving and Living (known as L.L.L.) Preschool, Inc., of Andover.

When she reached her destination, Byrne discovered that all the openings had been filled. Michael Byrne is now fourth on L.L.L.'s waiting list.

To the small group of other parents in Carol Byrne's family room, Byrne's plight is all too familiar. They, too, have experienced problems placing their children in nursery school; they are here to discuss them.

Janet Hosmer, Byrne's friend and the director of L.L.L., leans forward in her chair. "We've reached a new level of competitiveness this year," she says. "Last year, many parents hand-delivered their applications." She smiles ruefully. "This year, some of them realized that they could get a head start by saving the time it takes to get them in the mail. They called the post office and had them hold the applications for them; then they picked them up and brought them in directly to my house."

The stories abound: A mother calls five nursery schools to place her three-year-old; each has a waiting list. A desperate parent pays non-refundable registration fees of $15 to $20 each for the privilege of waiting in line for an opening at three preschools. One mother simultaneously fills out applications for two of her children—one, for her teenager, to Phillips Academy; one, for her three-year-old, for nursery school. Only the older one is accepted.

As of this writing, all but four of Andover's 13 official nursery schools have waiting lists for next fall in all age groups—and registration has just begun. Of the four exceptions, three have a few openings in selected, usually younger, categories; they expect to fill them soon. The fourth is a new afternoon session at the YMCA; officials say that the session really hasn't been publicized.

According to the Childcare Circuit, a Lawrence-based locater for area day-care and nursery school services, other towns such as North Andover, North Reading, Reading and Lawrence, are also feeling the preschool space pinch.

Unlike Andover, these towns have relatively few nursery schools in proportion to their populations. North Andover has only seven nursery schools, while Reading has five; both towns are smaller than Andover by less than 6,000 (based on 1980 census figures, which list Andover's population at 26,370). Lawrence, more than twice Andover's size, has three preschools (including Headstart). North Reading, half the size of Andover, has four.

Andover's supply-and-demand picture is somewhat different from its neighbors. Combined, Andover's 13 preschools serve approximately 550 children, ranging in age from two years, nine months, to six years of age—but mostly in the three- to four-year-old bracket.

According to the town census, there were 321 three-year-olds and 312 four-year-olds in Andover last year.

Given that some of these children did not go to nursery school, or used, instead, such "drop-in" programs as the library story hour, or went to preschools outside the town, 550 available spaces would not seem to present a real crisis for 633 youngsters.

But, as any preschooler's mother will attest, the picture is more complicated.

Some—though relatively few—children from other towns attend Andover's preschools. Also, for reasons to be discussed later, some of Andover's five-year-olds (numbering 363 in the 1985 census)—and even six-year-olds—are still in nursery school.

Another key factor in the shortage seems to be the character of the town itself.

The 1980 U.S. Census sets the median household income of Andover at $27,256, and indicates that 41 percent of the town's adult population has graduated from college. Both statistics—but especially the second—are substantially higher than figures for the towns listed above.

As an affluent, well-educated suburb, Andover has a reputation for placing a heavy emphasis on education. In other words, to many local parents, school—and even nursery school—can be serious business.

"Why do parents put their kids in preschool?" The speaker, who asks not to be identified, speculates, "Talking to parents, they say it's for the social experience for the kid. But you know Andover—I think many parents are into the competitive mode."

Janet Hosmer leans forward. "I have to tell you my story." Her eyes twin-

To Address Annual Meeting

The Andover Village Improvement Society will hold its 91st annual meeting on March 11 at Temple Emanuel on Haggett's Pond Road, Andover. A social hour will start at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. and the program at 8 p.m.

Juliet Kellogg French, an avid birder who has shared her love, exuberance and knowledge of birds with many, has agreed to share one more evening with the AVIS community. She will explore the varieties of birds which are indigenous to the area and why certain species are disappearing. This program will conclude the series that started with wildflowers on the reservations and continued last year with native trees.

For reservations or additional information, contact Rachel Garcia, Cheever Circle.

From North Andover: junior Jennifer Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Griffin.

Approximately 2 percent of the 340 students earned high honor roll distinction; 31 percent achieved the honor roll. Founded in 1763, the academy, serving grades 9-12 and the oldest boys' boarding school in the country, is now co-educational.

Taverns Focus Of Lecture

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Early New England taverns are the focus of the Andover Historical Society's annual Memorial Lecture by Strawbery Bank's James D. Coffey on Thursday, March 13, at 8 p.m. at the West Elementary School auditorium.

The public is invited to this yearly event which honors deceased members of the society who have made major contributions to the society's goals. Admission is free.

New England taverns played an important role in Colonial society, providing a place where one could eat, drink, spend the night, gamble, discuss politics, pick up the stage coach, hear a discourse on electricity and view exotic animals from around the world.

Strawbery Banke Museum in Portsmouth, N.H., is beginning a resotration project of one such tavern. The William Pitt Tavern, built by John Stavers in 1766, operated as an inn for more than 30 years. Not only could Stavers provide food, drink and entertainment, but it was also a Tory stronghold during the beginning of the Revolutionary War. The restoration, which is sechduled to begin this spring, prompted a great deal of architectural and historical research, providing the foundation for this lecture.

Coffee is director of interpretation at Strawbery Banke, the early name for Portsmouth. He has been an interpreter and lead teacher in the museum education department at Old Sturbridge Village.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-proft, educational institution open to members and the public. For information on open hours, exhibitions, tours special events and membership, call the office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Residents Assist Fund Drive

Rehabilitation is what Massachusetts Easter Seal is all about. The society offers a wide range of services for people of all ages with disabilities.

Easter Seal services are supported by individuals, corporations, foundations, service clubs, Easter Seal special events and the annual Easter Seal Telethon. Ninety-five percent of all money raised stays in Massachusetts and is used to benefit the people of the state.

Two Andover residents have taken an active part in this year's Easter Seal fund-raising efforts.

Richard Edmonds, general manager of the Holiday Inn of Woburn, is again taking a leading role in raising funds to support East Seal programs.

Edmonds of Bailey Road, Andover, has organized various fund-raising activities.

One of the major fundraisers sponsored by the Holiday Inn of Woburn is a Swim-a-thon conducted at the inn February 22-March 2.

Swimmers recruit sponsors to donate money based on the number of laps participants swim. This money is used to support East Seal swimming, camping, recreation and therapy programs for handicapped children and adults throughout the state.

Carol Robb of York Street, Andover, an employee of the Holiday Inn of Woburn, swam a total of 250 laps in 2½ hours, a distance of approximately 8,000 yards or four miles.

Robb, who swam for the Merrimack Valley champion Andover High School varsity swim team and for five years as a member of the Andover-North Andover YMCA swim team, is still an active competitor as a member of the ANA masters' swim team. She collected $300 during the Swim-a-thon.

Carol Robb

Edmonds, through donations from associates throughout the Woburn business community and from contributions received from visitors to the Holiday Inn of Woburn and his staff, hopes to be able to raise a minimum of $1,500 to be presented to the East Seal Society during the annual Telethon on March 8 and 9 on Channel 25.

This is the 15th consecutive year in which an Easter Seal telethon has been telecast nationally and the 12th year in New England.

Foundation Offers Grants

The Abbot and Dorothy H. Stevens Foundation has again offered a grant to the Andover Committee for A Better Chance, the non-profit organization which provides academically talented, economically deprived minority students with an educational alternative. This year the foundation focuses on the individual giver and will match increased annual contributions as well as one-third of the amount of any new three-year pledge. This arrangement creates a significant incentive for each call placed during the Phonathon on the evenings of March 10, 11, 12 and 13 at the Andover Savings Bank.

Last year the Stevens Foundation matched, on a one-to-one basis, new or increased gifts from local businesses (minimum $250, maximum $1,000) for a total of $7,500. All of the grant funds were matched. Contributing businesses included Andover Photo, Andover Savings Bank, Anton Cleaners, AT&T, Bank of Boston, Cole Remodeling, Digital Equipment Corporation, Doyle Lumber, First Software, Grasso Construction, N.B. John-Son, Monsanto, Nassar Ford, Pepsi Cola Methuen Bottlers, Inc., Raytheon and Sheraton Rolling Green.

Each year for the past 18 years, graduates of the Andover ABC program have gone on to academically challenging colleges, a career step that would be highly unlikely without the existence of a program such as ABC. The students reside at 134 Main St., Andover, and attend Andover High School. The emphasis of the program is on academic excellence. Strict academic guidelines require the students to maintain high grade point averages and to enroll in primarily college preparatory courses. Supervision is provided by Patty and Barry McCloskey, who have been resident directors for the past three years. Students are involved in sports and other extracurricular activities as well as in community service. One evening each week and one weekend per month, the students go to the home of their host parents who provide an important aspect of the program, an environment where each student can be apart from the group and participate as another member of a local family.

The organization is funded solely through individual and business donations. The annual budget averages $36,000 with additional capitol funding solicited to finance major repairs on the house when needed.

Andover ABC is a community program. The organization is run by a board of directors comprised of local townspeople who volunteer their time and talents. The Phonathon is also a community effort. The Andover Savings Bank donates its offices for the event so that volunters may call for renewals and new pledges. Local businesses provide coffee and refreshments for the volunteers.

Commission Seeks Logo In Contest

The North East Solid Waste Committee is in need of a logo and will be sponsoring a contest for the surrounding communities to find an official logo for NEWSWC.

The North East Solid Waste Committe is an association of 22 communities, which have joined together to solve the common problem of solid waste, according to Francis J. Hopcroft, Executive Director of NEWSWC.

"It's been decided that a contest would be the best solution, since it would give the youth in our communities a chance to better understand the issues surrounding solid waste, while having the opportunity to win a prize." Hopcroft said.

Every high school student in each of the 22 NESWC Communities is eligible to enter. The best idea will win a prize of $100 in cash. In addition there will be two $50 second prizes and four $25 third prizes.

The rules of the contest are: Only those high school students from the 22 NESEC Communities. The entry must be original and only one entry per contestant is allowed. Two or more students may submit jointly; but those submitting jointly can not submit separately. Each entry must have name, home addres, school, and the name of art teacher printed clearly on the back of entry. All entries will become the property of NESWC; none will be returned.

Contest entries are due by Friday, March 28 and the decision will be reached by Friday, April 25.

Greg Alexandris, 14 Crestwood Drive, Andover, has been named to the Dean's List at the University of Lowell for the fall semester. A member of the class of 1987, Alexandris is a Civil Engineering major.

A student must have a semester rating of not less than 3.0 and no grade of B/C or below to be selected for inclusion on the Dean's List.

Gains Early Admission To Bates

Margaret B. Easton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Easton, 2 Tobey Lane, Andover, an Andoer High senior, has been admitted to Maine's Bates College under its Early Decision Program.

Early Decision applicants are students who have decided that Bates is their first-choice college. Upon acceptance, they have agreed to withdraw all applications to other institutions.

Among the advantages to Early Decision is that students who indicate a strong desire to attend Bates, by submitting their application and credentials early, will receive special consideration in the evaluation process, according to the admissions office.

Furthermore, it is the college's policy to meet the full financial need, as determined by its financial aid office, of students admitted under the Early Decision plan.

Those who are not admited under the ED plan are not rejected at that stage. However, the admissions committee may defer making a decision until April 1, when the rest of the candidates are selected. Even if a student is deferred, his or her application is still given special consideration in the regular review, stated college officials.

Nursery

kling, she tells of taking her own youngest child—she is a mother of three—to a local YMCA program for toddlers, some of whom were as young as 18 months. "I just wanted my child to have a chance to run around in the gym," she says.

When the class instructors attempted to corral the children into a circle on the floor, Hosmer confronted them about this seemingly misplaced attempt at structuring a free exercise period.

"The staff said that it was unfortunate that we didn't want to go along with this," she said. "They said if we didn't, our kids wouldn't be ready for PRE-SCHOOL."

Parents laugh—but it is a knowing laugh.

They discuss their own motives. There are murmurs of agreement when Carol Byrne says, "I'm looking for my kid to be a kid. I want him to play with other kids, learn a few songs—I just feel he'll miss out on a good chance for socialization without nursery school."

Although nursery school directors agree that most of their clients attend for the social experience, many will admit—usually off the record—that some parents do place their preschoolers' education in the "competitive mode." Says Susan Rosenberger of West Parish Nursery School, "Some parents feel that their children will lose something if they don't have nursery school. It's like, 'I feel that my child has to be in school now—at three—because everybody I know has their children in preschool.' "

In seeming contradiction to this stereotype, most Andover preschool directors say that their programs primarily provide a social experience, rather than academics such as reading and number work.

And most parents, they say, seem to accept such a philosophy at the nursery school level. But, according to Linea Gershenberg, director of Andover's Early Childhood Learning Center at Shawsheen, the "competitive mode" is alive and thriving at the kindergarten level. "It's very common to this suburban type of community we've become to have parents who really want their children to achieve," she says.

Some parents of would-be nursery school students feel that the "competitive mode" has dealt them a double-whammy. Not only do some parents send children off early to seize nursery school slots, they charge; they hold their kindergarten-aged children in nursery school for an extra year to give them some kind of "edge."

As mentioned previously, there are five-year-olds in Andover's nursery schools. Some have turned five in mid-year, well before Andover's kindergarten cut-off date of Sept. 1. For others, the school system has recommended, after testing, that they take an additional year before entering kindergarten.

Most parents grant these children a legitimate claim to the nursery school seats they occupy.

It's a third group—children held back by parents without, or in spite of, school entry testing—that spells frustration for parents of wait-listed children.

"This year," says Janet Hosmer, "I think that every kid in our program who has a summer birthday is staying in nursery school."

Why? Someone suggests that some parents do not consider their five-year-olds ready for kindergarten. Suellen Robinson, a mother of three whose youngest is now in kindergarten, counters, "I don't think the problem is kindergarten; I think it's first grade."

No Room

An Andover youngster is silhouetted in a crowded nursery school classroom, hopeful of being registered but facing stiff competition for the available openings.

There exists, someone speculates, a chasm-like gap between Andover's kindergarten (which, adds another, is more like a nursery school) and first grade.

Robinson tells of a friend who feels that the first-grade work given her child (which includes homework—the mention of which brings grim nods from parents) is too advanced for the child's skills. The child has been struggling.

After a change of teachers, she adds, the child seems to be doing better—but his parents are not sure that he will pass to grade two next year.

Another parent, Gerry Anson, says that she knows of cases where parents have held their children in nursery school, kindergarten or Readiness because "even though their child might be ready...they hold the child back because they fear the unfair competition against older children in first grade."

Statistics from Andover's Early Childhood Learning Center place the number of kindergarten-aged children held back from kindergarten at 10 to 20 per year—a figure that director Gershenberg says has remained relatively constant over time. Of these "hold-outs," she estimates, approximately half are kept back by parents without preschool testing. Of the tested, half who stayed back—11 preschoolers last year—only five did so on the recommendation of school officials.

The approximate 20 "hold-outs" accounts for about six percent of this year's 338 kindergarten students. They would occupy only 20 preschool seats town-wide—not a huge number.

Added to this, however, are a number of seats held by false "hold-outs." Because the school system runs pre-kindergarten testing after nursery school registration, some parents re-register their children as a hedge against the possibility that they will not test at kindergarten level.

The retention picture changes once a child enters kindergarten in Andover.

Last year, says Gershenberg, only one non-special-needs child was counseled to repeat kindergarten.

After kindergarten, however, 36 were placed in Readiness.

A full-day pre-first-grade program, Readiness is open to children who, upon finishing kindergarten, are identified by testing (and/or teacher recommendation) as being not quite ready for grade-school.

Begun in fall of 1978, the Readiness program enjoys universal support among Andover grade school principals, who say that it, coupled with the recent shift in the five-year-old birthday cut-off date for kindergarten entry (from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1), have significantly decreased grade-school retentions. "We call it 'a gift of time'," says South School's Jade Auger.

Linnea Gershenberg feels that Readiness increases a child's self-confidence, and that a Readiness child who more fully prepared for the demands of school and more committed to education than one who has to struggle to keep up with peers who are developmentally "older."

Readiness is not without its critics, however.

The choice to retain a child at any level belongs, ultimately, to the parents; Gershenberg admits that it is not an easy one. "Parents are wanting to be so perfect these days," she says; they feel pressure to make the right choice for their child's future. Some parents of children referred to Readiness feel that Andover's school system plays off this pressure—which is not unmixed with guilt—to "sell" them the program. Says one mother, "It was subtle—but after speaking to people at the Center and at the grade school, I came away feeling that my child would be a junkie in high school if I 'pushed him' into first grade, even though he tested at that level."

In the final analysis, the mother adds, her child had enjoyed and thrived in the program. But she's still not sure he needed it—or that she would have been given the recommendation to begin with in a town other than Andover.

On the other hand, another mother, faced with the decision, opted to place her twin girls in first grade. She is now having second thoughts.

Marcia Carrier's girls—who have late summer birthdays—have been struggling in the first grade at Sanborn, she says. They have also been having nightmares. Carrier is considering retaining the girls in first grade next year.

But she hesitates, because she feels that, if her husband were to be transferred to another state, "I think they'd be fine in any other school system."

Conversely, Patti Shepard's daughter Carrie, a kindergarten classmate of the Carrier twins, is now in Readiness—and Shepard says, "I could not be more pleased." She adds that she wishes that she had sent an older child to the program; his August birthday makes him the youngest child in his third-grade class—a position he says he hates.

Like many parents, Shepard feels that there is a pronounced gap between kindergarten and first grade, but that Readiness fills the need for children who, like Carrie, are not equipped to bridge it easily. Andover's system is rigorous but, compared to that of San Francisco, where she used to live, she says, "Some of the things they're doing here, they could have only done in a private school there."

Some Andover parents charge that Readiness has "gotten out of proportion"; it has, in effect, created a new grade. Gershenberg counters that argument by noting that the Readiness program has always been limited to 36 students, even though the kindergarten population that feeds has been rising steadily (from 256 in 1981 to 338 this year).

Grace Jamison, who has taught Kindergarten in Andover for 16 years, adds, "In my opinion, we could use more Readiness in this town; we could fill another class without even looking back."

Jamison agrees, somewhat, that Andover's kindergarten might appear to be no more than an extension of the town's nursery schools—but only because officials from a number of those nurserys have used kindergarten classes as a model for their own curricula.

A first grade teacher who has also taught kindergarten here for seven years agrees with Jamison. "Nursery school has crowded into the kindergarten area," she says. "Now, many parents in Andover would like kindergarten to crowd into the first grade area."

Both she and Jamison feel that Andover's kindergarten program is sound. "Kindergarten should be a year of exploration and personal growth," emphasizes Jamison.

Of the first grade, Jamison says, "Personally, I feel that it should slow down a little. They give them a lot in first grade here, then they slow down in second." She says that she would prefer to see more use of "concrete" materials—objects which can be manipulated by the children for the sake of learning—in lieu of pencil and paper.

In spite of her personal reservations about the program, Jamison feels that the system does work. She also praises the teaching staff that implements it as being extraordinarily talented. "I think that what needs to be said for Andover is that the teachers here give 200 percent," she says, and that they are very supportive of the needs of students in the early elementary grades.

Like Jamison, the first grade teacher interviewed would prefer to see less use of pencil and paper in first grade. But, she adds, her teaching experience at both grade levels has made her aware that, in spite of the misgivings of many kindergarten teachers, first grade students can handle the curriculum. "The (first grade) program has very different objectives," she explains. "Sometimes that means pushing children more than the kindergarten people think they should be pushed." The majority of children, she says, do succeed.

Parental pressure, she adds, is a very large factor behind the sophistication of the first grade system. She finds that the "competitive mode" in Andover even drives parents to berate a child's report card grade of "3." "Parents here often equate the numbers with 'A, B and C,' " she says. "That's not the way it works. A '3' is a very good mark in Andover." Is the school system unhealthy for children? No, says the teacher, "I don't think that school does things to children; that's a common misconception. I think it's the atmosphere in the home that can do it." For many Andover parents, the push to achieve and compete begins in nursery school, she says, and a spirit of one-upsmanship exists that permeates virtually every aspect of a child's life.

Linnea Gershenberg sees early parental pressure on young children to make high grades. It is not only unfair, she says, but misplaced. Citing data on adults who are professionally successful, she says that there is often little correlation between top-notch grades in school and success in later life.

Rick Irving, who serves as a psychologist at Bancroft School, does not feel that schools in Andover are beyond the skills—or psychological well-being—of their students. "I would characterize the curriculum as having an enormous amount of content," he says. "There's a lot that kids have to learn." But, for the most part, those who would learn, do, he says. And for children who have trouble with the curriculum, he adds, "The system seems to be very willing to provide services so that the kids don't fall flat."

Many school officials feel that the much-touted "gap" between kindergarten and first grade is largely philosophical. The programs are different; kindergarten is developmental in focus (i.e.: it distinguishes between a child's chronological age and the age at which he or she actually functions). First grade, where a child traditionally learns to read and use numbers, is more academic.

Kindergarten is also a half-day program; first grade is a whole day. The first grade teacher who was interviewed recognizes that that factor can be difficult for a first grader just beginning school. She, personally, would like to see a more gradual introduction to first grade—perhaps a half-day program for the first few weeks. "The children are sometimes physically exhausted at the end of a long day," she says. Parents often compound the burden, she adds, by keeping their children up late, or by enrolling them in outside programs and classes after school. "I feel that school is enough for a first grader," the teacher says firmly.

As most parents realize, even first-graders have homework. The teacher concedes that it is school committee policy—but that, in first grade, "It's seldom more than 10 to 15 minutes per week."

West Elementary principal Jack Coyle agrees that the jump from kindergarten to first grade can be "heavy at times. But not heavy," he adds, "for the children that are ready."

Furthermore, says Coyle, "in a lot of other places, their kindergarten is not developmental—it's academic." Instead of allowing the growth permitted by Andover's system, he says, such kindergartens push a child even earlier into an academic system for which the child might not be ready.

Coyle adds that the school system is working to soften the transition from kindergarten to first; this year, in fact, it is piloting a new first-grade program to meet the needs of children who have difficulty with Andover's phonetic reading program.

Agrees Assistant Superintendent of Schools Lois Haslam, "At times in the past, we have moved children too rapidly to paper and pencil—but we are working assiduously to see to it that the transition is not so difficult." The school system, she says, must continually strike a balance between parents who place a high premium on academics and those who bridle at the real or perceived difficulty of the curriculum.

As the parents in Carol Byrne's family room indicate, many parents feel that first graders must be older to handle the high content of their curriculum. West's Coyle estimates that average entry age of first graders at his school might be approximately six-and-one-half years. It has risen somewhat over the past few years, he concedes—but primarily because of the Sept. 1 birthday cut-off and the Readiness program. As mentioned previously, these changes have also lower the rate of retention in gradeschool, he says.

Some picture of the age and composition of Andover's first grade classes can be gained by combining figures for kindergarten and first-grade retention (14 last year, according to school officials) with those for pre-school "holdouts" (20) and the Readiness population (36). Altogether, these indicate that roughly 70 children, or about 20 percent of a first-grader class of roughly 340 students could be a year, or more, older than those who comply with the cut-off date.

How does this compare with statistics from other towns? It is difficult to make comparisons; there are many variables. For one thing, few other towns that are educationally and economically similar to Andover have a Sept. 1 school entry cut-off. Also, few have ready access to preschool "hold-out" statistics. To further complicate the comparison, surprisingly few similar towns have a Readiness program—which accounts for more than half of Andover's "holdbacks."

Of a number of towns polled, Chelmsford has certain similarities—in economic level, number of schools, student population and entry date (Oct. 1). It also has a Readiness program, but only in one of its four elementary schools.

In Chelmsford, kindergarten and first grade retentions, plus the town's 34 Readiness students, accounted for approximately 99 "hold-backs" last year—or about 25 percent of the first grade population of nearly 400. Although they could not supply preschool figures, officials felt that preschool "hold-outs" were minimal.

To show how widely different school systems can vary, in the town of Bedford, which is smaller by half than Andover but more similar in income and education level than Chelmsford, school officials estimate that approximately eight percent repeat kindergarten or first grade. Bedford has no Readiness, and preschool "holdbacks" are estimated to be very few.

In short, the statistics do not fully explain Andover's lack of nursery school space. The issue is a complicated one, and airing it will still not set a chair at a nursery school table for children of the parents gathered in Carol Byrne's family room.

But, perhaps, they and other parents in a similar predicament might find some small comfort in the words of Charlotte Flynn, co-director of the St. Augustine Enrichment Program—an afternoon session for children who are post-nursery school and pre-kindergarten: "After three months, it's very hard for us to tell the children that have had nursery school before coming here from the ones who haven't. They catch up."

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

The age of two is the age of discovery - when your child tries to find him or herself as a real, whole person. For two years your child has been developing, but now it's important to be big, to be strong, to have power and independence. This is the age at which your child wants to be real - wants to assert himself or herself. These years are not so easy for parents to live with. It was so much simpler to love your little one who stayed in your arms, without much movement. Now your child has changed. The love is still very necessary, but with freedom, with guidance, with lessons in safety and obedience. Hang in there, Mom and Dad - The "Terrible Twos" can be terrific!

Has Print Exhibit At Harvard

A show of the six recent silkscreen prints printed by Camellia Sullivan, 94 North Main St., Andover, will be on exhibition at Currier House, Harvard University through April 9. A reception will be held Sunday, March 9, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friends and the public are invited.

Sullivan has been a publisher and silkscreen printer since 1978 when she formed her company, Genovese Graphics, in Boston. Since then she has invited artists to work on projects that somtimes get lengthy as in the case of these prints which she began January 2, 1985, and completed July 15, 1985.

This portfolio of six prints were conceived by artist Jeremy Gilbert Rolfe, an Englishman who now resides in California. The prints are a combination of silkscreen and pencil on French paper 50" x 5½." They are a closely knit group which explore a single idea and are identified by their color borders, yellow, grey, blue, black, red, white. To quote Sullivan's neighbor, Karen, "they make you feel good."

Bradford College Gets Gift

Bradford College has received a gift of $500,000 from alumni Arthur Kittredge Watson, Jr., and his wife, Rebecca Fish Watson, of New Canaan, Conn., to endow The Ann Hemingway Watson Symington (Mrs. Stuart Symington) Chair in Administration and Management.

Watson, class of 1978, and his wife, class of 1979, have created the chair in honor of his mother, Ann Hemingway Watson Symington, who graduated from Bradford in 1938. The family and the college share generations of ties which began when Watson's great-great-grandmother, Caroline Trowbridge, received a Bradford diploma in 1855. Also alumnae of Bradford are Watson's great aunt, Mary Elizabeth Booth Hemingway, 1903; grandmother, Madaleine Cooney Hemingway, 1904; aunts, Jean Schenck Hemingway, 1944; Aileen Doolittle Hemingway, 1947; and Madaleine Hemingway Ryan, 1947; and cousins, Mary Hemingway, 1970, and Ann Hemingway, 1971. The college has been the recipient of the family's loyal support and generosity through the years. In 1962 and '63, for instance, the Madaleine Cooney Hemingway Library was constructed through the family's beneficience and was further endowed by Mrs. Symington.

The Ann Hemingway Watson Symington Chair in Administration and Management, said Watson, will be a permanent remembrance of his mother and another tangible testimony to his family's roots at the college.

Mrs. Symington has given unstinting service to the college since her graduation, said its president, Dr. Arthur E. Levine. "She served as trustee from 1964 to 1978 and has been an honorary trustee since then. She also served the college on alumni and admissions committees, giving unsparingly and devotedly of her time and extraordinary talents. We are very proud to number 'Nancy' Symington among our alumni and extremely grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Watson for having created this chair in her honor. We know it will increase the honor of Bradford College as well."

Doherty Junior High Happenings

By Adam Galvin

The Heart to Heart program recently run at Doherty was an overwhelming success. Nearly all the students bought their compatability sheets and the student council raised more than $300.

The boys' and girls' basketball seasons ended with incredible records. The boys were very impressive in all their games, especially on the suspenseful West game. However, they did suffer two losses at the beginning of the season, putting their record at 9-2. The girls, however, were unbeatable, rolling over opponents by scores of 52-11 and 48-5. They were another one of Mr. Hurley's undefeated teams.

There will be a seventh grade dance this Thursday and an eighth and ninth grade dance next Friday night.

A number of student council members were recently invited to attend a P.A.C. meeting. The main topic was Doherty's "supposed" drug problem, which was highly publicized in the papers and on television. Many parents want to know the truth behind all the accusations. The truth is, the drug problem is no more serious than it has been in any previous year. Drugs and alcohol do exist at Doherty, just as they do at any other junior high. Many students accredit this to the extreme lack of social events sponsored by the town. With the exception of sporting events and school-sponsored activities, the students find there is not much else to do during the weekends.

Design Day A Success

Excitement and enthusiasm were definitely in the air on Design Day at Bancroft School. Robert Leathers, architect of Ithaca, N.Y., and the students worked on a design fro the new playground.

The committee got an early start on Thursday morning looking over the school site, reviewing the day's schedule, discussing the playground content and measuring the 180' x 150' proposed site.

Leathers and his assistant, Rosemary Roukes, met with students throughout the day to review their drawings of the ideal playground. Leathers felt "children are the secret to this project. After all, the playground is for them, so they should know what should be included." After meeting with all the students and gathering ideas, he proceeded to draw a rough schematic design.

Later he met with the children's committee, a group of students selected at random from each loft to work with the adult committee and who will hold various projects to benefit the playground. Total involvement of students and adults is stressed for a successful project. Children have expressed what they felt should be included in the playground, from wanting forts, curly slide, slide poles, swinging bridges, tire mazes, lookout towers, picnic tables, amphitheater and a handicap ramp and a section design for handicap use. A second amphitheater, built separately, was also proposed that would seat 400-500 and would be used for various functions, including plays, sixth grade graduation, clown performances or community functions.

Leathers and Roukes met with the committee later in the day to discuss the duties of each committee and the proposed ideas, followed by a pot luck dinner.

A gathering of between 500-600 people were on hand for the 7:30 p.m. slide presentation. Mrs. Iora Alexander, principal, made a few opening remarks and introduced Peter Prudden and Luke Pfeifle, coordinators for the playground.

Mrs. Jane Vondell, fifth grade aide, wrote two songs for the occasion. The students sang "Take me out to the Playground" followed by the teachers singing 'Gonna Build a Playground."

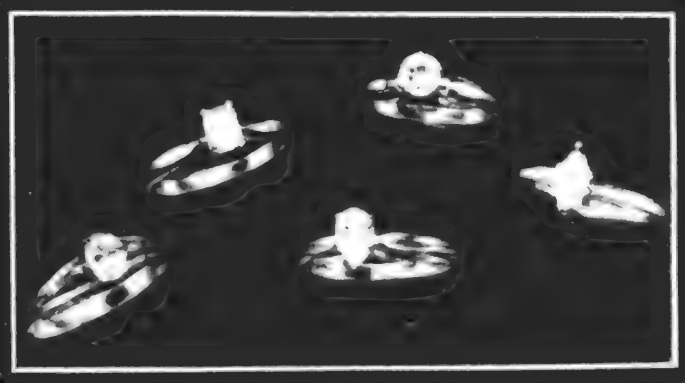

Leathers gave a slide presentation sample of some of the 250 playgrounds he has designed in the past eight years. It gave parents an idea of what it takes to construct a playground—lots of community spirit, hard work, fun and total involvement.

The playground is projected to be built in September or October and will be completed in four days. Skilled and unskilled workers are needed. Anyone wishing to get involved or who would like to make a contribution should contact Peter Prudden. Approximately 300 people are needed to make this become a reality.

Bloodhounds can detect a scent up to ten days old.

On Dean's List

Students must have earned four Bs or better during the semester to receive this designation.

Coffee

The first step to great coffee starts with the coffee bean itself. There are primarily two types of beans. The arabica, the king of coffee beans, produces a rich, aromatic and flavorful coffee brew. The second type, the robusta is a less flavorful bean which is often blended with the arabica to make up most of the vacuum-packed ground roast coffee available. The higher the arabica content of ground roast coffee, the better the brewed cup will likely be. As important as the blend of coffee beans is the fineness of the grind. The finer the grind, the less coffee used and the more flavor extracted.

The second important step to brewing a great cup of coffee is the method used. Coffee experts around the world agree that the drop method is best for extracting the maximum flavor from coffee without extracting the bitterness that results from other brewing methods.

Freesia

A native of Africa, the freesia is named for a 19th century student of plants from that part of the world, Friedrich Freese.

The original freesia was a rather plain flower, but during a 30-year period in the 20th century, plant breeders developed freesias with taller, more graceful stems and more abundant and layered blooms.

The modern freesia comes in an array of colors, including pure white, red, pink, mauve, lavender, blue, cream, yellow and copper.

When shopping for freesias, look for stems with lots of buds and with maybe only one flower in bloom.

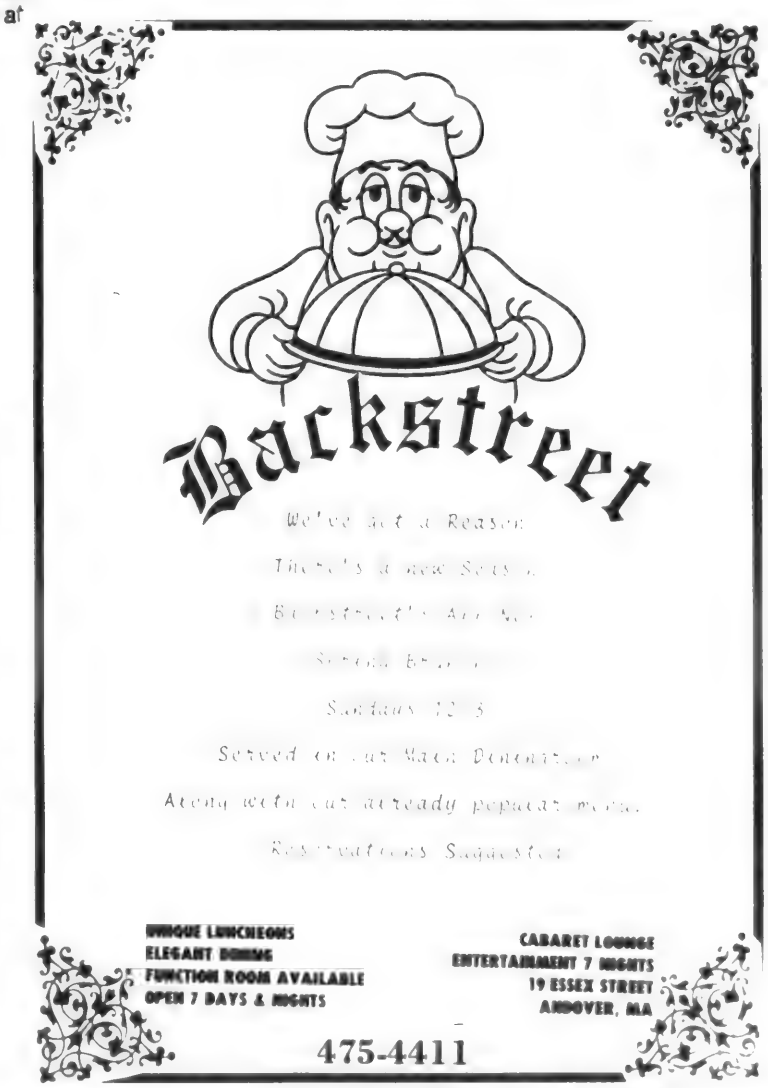

At home, cut the stems on an angle with a sharp knife.

Arrange in shallow, tepid water containing a floral preservative. Only about one-third of the stem length should be under water.

To help increase the life of the flowers, remove aging florets from the stems so they don't affect the entire bloom.

Bishop Methodios Will Visit Lawrence Church On Sunday

Greek Orthodox Bishop of Boston Methodios will celebrate the Divine Liturgy at Sts. Constantine and Helen Church in Lawrence on Sunday, March 9, when the community will observe Fr. George Karahalios' 30th anniversary of ordination to the priesthood and his 15th year as pastor of the Lawrence community. Orthros will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the Divine Liturgy at 10:30 a.m. The Byzantine Choir of Lowell, under the direction of Dr. Chrisos, J. Bentas, will sing the responses.

This celebration in honor of Fr. Karahalios is one of many activities the commnity is sponsoring this year, the 50th anniversary of its establishment. The parishioners of Sts. Constantine and Helen have embarked on the building of a new church on the site of the former Doyle Lumber Company in Andover. "Faith and Initiative" is the slogan which the Greek Orthodox community of Lawrence and surrounding towns will seek to meet as they make plans to begin construction later this spring.

Immediately following the Divine Liturgy, Fr. Karahalios will be honored at a special reception in the community's hall, according to Elaine Kevgas, chairman of the anniversary celebration for the pastor.

The Rev. Dr. George Karahalios has been serving the Greek Orthodox Community of Sts. Constantine and Helen in Lawrence since 1971. He is also associate professor of philosophy at Hellenic Colege and the director of The Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology Alumni Association. His Grace Bishop Methodios of Boston appointed Fr. Karahalios chancellor of the diocese, which encompasses the five New England states, on September 1, 1984.

A native of Athens, Greece, Fr. Karahalios was ordained to the diaconate on March 11, 1956, and to the priesthood on March 24, 1957. A graduate of Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, he also holds degrees from Boston University (S.T.M.) and the University of Heidelberg, Germany (Ph.D. in Philosophy). His areas of interest and expertise are New Testament theology and the Greek classics.

Fr. Karahalios has been the Spiritual Father of The Holy Trinity Church in Lowell and the New Hampshire parishes of Concord, Laconia and Franklin. He has also served as chaplain at the state hospital prison and school in Laconia, N.H. Throughout his ministry, Fr. Karahalio has exhibited superb administrative qualities with successful fund-raising a major aspect of his accomplishments. He has been instrumental in planning programs to promote and project the Greek language.

Fr. Karahalios has served as acting dean of Hellenic College and on various academic and administrative committees of the college and Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology. He is the author of various articles, the latest, on Michael Psellos, will be included in a new Encyclopedia of Religion to be published by MacMillan Publishing Company. As the official representative of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America, Fr. Karahalios participated in seminars at the Orthodox Center in Chambesy, Switzerland, on "The Meaning and Relevance of the Second Ecumenical Synod for Today's Christian World" (in 1981) and "Luther un die Deutsche Reformation in Oekumenischer Sicht" (in 1982 on the occasion of the 500th anniversary of Martin Luther).

Fr. Karahalios and his wife, Calypso Arianoutsos, formerly of Brookyn, N.Y., are residents of Andover. Mrs. Karahalios is the director of the Sts. Constantine and Helen Choir.

ACT To Conduct Auditions

Andover Community Theater hs announced auditions for its next production, "Rehearsal For Murder," will be held Wednesday and Thursday, March 19 and 20, at West Elementary School from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"Rehearsal For Murder" is a "theatrical" mystery in which the theater becomes the set for the play. The playwright prepares for the first reading of this new play. The actors, producer, director and others connected with the show come on stage and, through their dialogue, the audience discovers that everyone connected with this play was involved with another play by the same playwright. At its opening night, exactly a year ago in the same theater, the leading lady, who was also the playwright's fiancee, was murdered. As these people start with the new play, startling connections to the murder begin to reveal themselves. All become suspects in a plot that has many dazzling twists to finally uncover the party responsible for the death.

The script calls for the playwright (in his 30s) producer, director (in his 20s), the leading man and woman (in their 30s), the supporting character roles (one male, one female) and assorted people connected with the theater.

The play, directed by Peter O. Allen, will be produced in June. Andover Community Theater is operated in conjunction with the Department of Community Services.

Composer To Have Boston Premiere

North Reading resident, Marie Stultz, will have the world premiere of her "Maiden of Edo," op. 6, for flute, harp and voice on March 10 at 8 p.m. in The Boston Conservatory Theatre.

The song cycle will be premiered by Mary Saunders of Manchester, soprano, with Ruth Emanuel, harp, and Lois Cornils, flute, both Boston residents. Other members of the ensemble in this chamber music performance are flutist Heidi Baxter of Winchester, clarinetist Katherine Rideout of Marblehead and bassoonist Don Bravo of Natick.

"Maiden of Edo" is a five-movement song cycle woven out of the fabric of Japanese legends. The reference to Edo, the ancient name for Tokyo, suggests the classic origins of the texts. The story tells of a maiden who, after the death of her samurai father, had to become a Geisha to support herself and her mother. A skilled lutenist, flutist and dancer, she was highly admired. However, after she fell in love, she was thrown out of the geisha house with her faithful servant into a life of poverty. She experiences bitterness and destitution, yet she has fantasies about the return of her beloved. She commits suicide in final disillusion and despair.

Included on the program will be the first major performance of Stultz' "Caprice au Vent," op. 5 for flute and bassoon. It has had two previous readings at Harvard and at Composers Fourm in New York; a Teleman "Sonata in F Major" for flute and harp; Aaron Copland's "As it Fell Upon a Day" for flute, clarinet and soprano; The Ravel "Greek Songs" for harp and voice; two Roussel songs for flute and voice; and a two-flute sonata by Hindemith.

Stultz is music director of The Old North Church in Marblehead and founder and artistic director of the Treble Chorus of New England, a professional children's choir based in Andover. She holds a B.M.E. and M.M. degree from Southern Methodist University. She has studied with both American and English masters. Her current teacher is John Heiss, professor at the New England Conservatry. Her works are performed regularly throughout the country and she has conducted much of the major repertoire for chorus and orchestra.

Stultz will act as artistic director of this new chamber ensemble, selecting the music for various programs and coaching the professional musicians involved and creating new works and transcribing existing works for future performances. After this concert, this chamber ensemble will continue as The Oberon Consort and are available for engagements throughout the Greater New England area. The concert is free and open to the public.

Kitchen Design

by David A. Clement, Designer

THAT SINKING FEELING

Kitchen planning starts with the sink. A kitchen designer always locates it first. This is partially due to the fact that good planning often centers it with the refrigerator to the right and the cooking and serving area to the left of it. In addition, the sink must go where the plumbing lines are. Their location is usually partially determined by other factors such as the location of bathrooms. The sink does not have to go under a window. This is a matter of personal preference. The idea that this positioning enabled a mother to watch the kids playing has always been questionable. If there is but one window in the kitchen, it may be best to save it for a breakfast/lunch area.

If you're ready to make some daring moves, then you're ready for WINDSOR KITCHENS. There's no need to stick with traditional layouts of the sink under the window. Let us show you the many modern ways you can place your sink and utilize your kitchen space to its best advantage. One example is a center island sink/work area with cabinetry below. For your cabinets you can select modern, traditional or European styles. Whatever you choose for the kitchen we offer installations. So come down to 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill, 9:00-5:30 Daily, Wed. 9-8, Sat. 10-3. Tel. 372-3444

Energy Fund Continues Increase

Massachusetts Electric Company, 20 other state utilities and four Bay State mayors urged Massachusetts citizens to take advantage of more than $350,000 that is available to pay energy bills.

"The funds are available for people who earn too much to qualify for government energy assistance, but find that their income is not enough to meet all their energy needs," said Edward E. Mulligan, president of the New England Electric retail company. "Households could receive as much as $200 in assistance if they are unable to pay for deliverable fuel or have a 60-day outstanding electric or gas bill. Also, a household must earn between $7,875 for a family of one to $28,500 for a family of six," he continued.

Mass Electric started its portion of the Good Neighbor Energy Fund on October 11, 1985, when it donated $25,000 from the sale of its energy-efficient home in Auburn. To date, total Mass Electric customer and company donations have topped $120,000.

Those interested in applying for assistance from the Good Neighbor Energy Fund should call, visit or write their nearest Salvation Army Community office and complete an application form before April 30, 1986.

Massachusetts Electric serves 811,000 customers in 146 communities and is a subsidiary of New England Electric, a public utility holding company headquartered in Westborough.

Special Affiliation Service

The synagogue is the cornerstone of Jewish life and the place where Jews come together to worship, study and perform acts of loving kindness.

During-March, Temple Emanuel of Andover is joining with many other congregations throughout the Greater Boston area to support special programs designed to encourage individuals and families to deepen their ties to the Jewish community by becoming members of synagogues.

The Sabbath Eve. Service on Friday, March 14, at 8 p.m. will be planned to acquaint unaffliated Jewish families with the role of the temple in Jewish life in the Greater Andover area. Officers of the temple, sisterhood and brotherhood, and chairpersons of many active and ongoing committees will be present along with the advisors to the Senior Youth Group, TEMTY, and the Junior Youth Group.

All these people will be available during the Oneg following the service to answer questions and provide information.

All unaffliiated Jewish families are invited to the temple on Haggetts Pond Road for this Sabbath Service and Sabbath Fellowship.

Forum On Philippines

The First United Methodist Church, 57 Peters St., North Andover, (intersection of Routes 114 and 133) is sponsoring an adult forum on the crisis in the Philippines at 11 a.m., following the 10 a.m. worship service on Sunday, March 9.

The speaker, Mrs. Rosa Hodgson, spent 16 days in January touring the country and visiting areas as diverse as Makata, Manila's plush Wall Street section, and the "Smokey Mountain," where the poor live in utter squalor. Part of a group of university students, she is attending U. Mass in Boston, Mrs. Hodgson sought to expose herself to the situation in the country, assess the political implications of the scheduled presidential election, meet directly with the people and see first hand the social and economic conditions in which they live and witness the participation of the church in their struggle for freedom and self-determination.

Mrs. Hodgson is the wife of the Rev. Harold Hodgson, pastor of Gammons Memorial United Methodist Church in Bridgewater. She was born in Spain and grew up in Cuba, fleeing to the United States when Castro came to power. Since meeting her husband in a refugee camp in Florida where he was working for a Methodist relief agency, Mrs. Hodgson has been active in the United Methodist Church in the area of social concern.

The Ballard Vale United Church (a United Methodist and United Church of Christ congregation) will observe Girl Scout Sunday at this Sunday's 10:30 a.m. Service of the Word. Cornell will preach on "Robe, Ring and Fatted Calf" based on the story of "The Lost Son" in the 15th chapter of the Gospel according to Luke. Girls Scouts will serve cookies and punch during the fellowship time following the service. The men of the church will gather at 8 a.m. for their fellowship breakfast. The Rev. Westy Egmont, South Church, will share some of his experiences in his TV ministry and talk about "Media Religion."

Beta Carotene

Beta carotene is the most common plant form of vitamin A, present in yellow/orange fruits and vegetables and some leafy green vegetables. Among the best sources are carrots, sweet potatoes, apricots, winter squash, kale, broccoli and spinach.

The viatmin A provided by beta carotene helps to keep skin, eyes and inner linings of the body healthy and resistant to infection. This essential vitamin is also needed for the maintenance and growth of teeth, nails, hair, bones and glands. Because the body converts beta carotene to vitamin A in a regulated way, beta carotene is nature's safest source of vitamin A.

Treat leftover baked potatoes like this; cut in half, scoop out, mash potato with sour cream, grated cheese, chives, salt and pepper, return to shells and freeze.

Textbook Budget Debated

By Lisa Waterman

Textbooks were at issue in this year's annual school budget, drawing opinions from teachers who gathered to observe final budget negotiations during Andover's School Committee meeting on Tuesday evening.

The School Committee is requesting $60,000 for the replacement of textbooks in this year's school budget.

The $60,000 would be spread over approximately 5,000 students within Andover's school system.

"We are dealing with school books at the high school level that are decrepit and dilapidated." Chris Keffler, English and Public Speeking teacher at the high school said. " The sum of $60,000 dollars in not equitable."

The Andover school system is spending less than half of the national average toward replacement of text books, according to School Committee Chairman Donald Robb.

"We have a replacement schedule for books whose copyright date is over five years old." Supt. Kenneth Seifert said. "If we are not keeping pace and using school books that state, "that we will some day get to the moon," I want to be informed of it.

Keffler, qualified who statement and informed Seifert that she was referring to primarily paper back books, which have about a two year life expectancy. according to Keffler.

"We have to take a hard look at ourselves, some of our Anatomy books are Physics books are have copyright dates of 1972 and 1978." Robert King, Science teacher at the high school said. "Are books that are ten years old still usable? I don't think we can throw our chest out in pride."

Requests from the schools of a certian nature are not refused, according to Supt. Seifert.

"There is no question about the replacement of dog-eared paperbacks. Teachers should not be making do, I want to be aware if this is a problem that is falling through the cracks." Supt. Seifert said.

Textbooks are replaced on a five year cycle, with one subject every five years updated, according to Robb.

Supt. Kenneth Seifert will be meeting with Assistant Superintendents Lois Haslem and Les Loomis this week, to discuss the textbook issue and a possible increase in the $60,000 allotment, which would be budgeted by decreasing funds from another school budget item, leaving the final $17,108, 231.

Computer Update Requested

The question of the Andover School System keeping pace with the rapid change in technology and modernization of the current computer system will be addressed with a proposal of a special article that will request $75,000 during the upcoming Town Meeting by the School Committee.

"I don't think we are really addressing ourselves," Supt. Kenneth Seifert said. "Whether we want to admit it or not we are in a competitive marketplace, not suggesting one to compete educationally but graduates do compete. Either we are going to be serious about it and apply risk capital or maybe we better patch up the system. We are not keeping pace."

In 1983, the town voted to provide $150,000 to upgrade the computer system and include the addition of micro-computers.

Available sums of money could not be found during the next two years to continue the three-phase process to upgrade the town and school computer system, according to school administrators.

The $75,000 will be used for printers and more storage capacity, disks, a laser scanner for the high school and to modernize school system and administration office equipment.

Place Seventh In Decathlon

Andover took seventh place in the state's Academic Decathlon held at the Cambridge Rindge and Latin School, Cambridge, on Saturday, Feb. 8. and brought home six winning medals.

The Andover contenders made the first round in a decathlon that tested brain, not brawn, in a contest that was sponsored by World Book Encyclopedia.

The six members of Andover's Academic Decathalon team competed in written and oral tests in Economy, Impressionism, World War II, Math, Science, and Literature.

The team was not made of elitist students, team coach Ruby Easton said. "It was comprised of two students with an A average, two with a B average and two with a C average."

The seven Andover High students, who participated were chosen for their interest in the Academic Decathalon and on teacher recommendations, were: Susan Sofia, Grey Road; Lauren Pickard, Maple Avenue; Mary Robb, York Street; David Maguire, Ivy Lane; Erin Kaufman, Blueberry Hill Road; David Pouliot, Greenwood Road; all seniors, and Kim Guild, junior, Algonquin Avenue, who served as an alternate.

The teams were required to study the book, "Cry The Beloved Country," a story about South Africa.

Gold medals were brought home by Susan Sofia and Erin Kaufman, for the interview section of the contest. Lauren Picard brought home a bronze medal for her speech and David Maguire won a silver medal for the essay portion based on the quote regarding immigration.

"It was really enjoyable, the studying was taxing, but we learned a lot from it." Mary Robb said. "We were responsible for learning on our own, we had four great coaches. Our coach, Ruby Easton, searched the entire country for a copy of the film "Cry the Beloved Country." so we could see it."

The average time lapse between a mosquito bite and mosquito itch is about three minutes.

Planning Board Proposals Get Approval From Selectmen

By Susan K. O'Neill

On Monday night, the Board of Selectmen added their stamp of approval to Planning Board warrant articles which would promote retail use of the Park and Barnard Street corridors and create a Multi-family zone on the edge of the Central Business District.

The Board also heard discussion concerning the Planning Board's proposed Watershed Protection Overlay Zone, but did not vote on the issue. Instead, Chairman William Dalton advised the Planning Board to work with Public Works head Robert McQuade to produce a more mutually satisfactory version of the article.

Initially, selectmen seemed skeptical about the Retail Priority Overlay, which would restrict first-floor use of properties along Park and Barnard Streets and in the Park Village Mall to retail, restaurant and personal/consumer services. "Aren't you infringing on a property owner's rights?" asked selectman Donn Byrne of Planning Board Chairman Margaret Bradshaw.

"You're codifying the present-day economy," added chairman William Dalton.

Bradshaw explained that the board considered the area in question "an area we thought was in transition," and said that the article's purpose was to "encourage retail use."

"You're not encouraging it," said Byrne, "You're legislating it."

Selectman John Scileppi said, "Why are we doing this? Ninety percent of it's retail anyway—except for the bowling alley. And I think," he added, "that that ought to be a parking garage."

Principal Planner Nancy Jeton explained that the article represented an attempt by the board to be forward-looking; it was a response to public sentiment that the renovated parking lot downtown should serve retail shops. Furthermore, she said, there were three buildings in the corridor that would be

School Board Accepts $17M Budget

By Lisa Waterman

Andover's School Committee voted to accept the $17,108,231 annual school budget, which is a seven percent increase over last year's, in front of a full house of teachers and parents, Tuesday evening.

School Committee member David Birnbach passed on a vote of acceptance and continued to call for a reduction in the indirect labor from the clerical staff in order to redirect funding into the classroom and teacher training.

Once again, Birnbach called for additional funding from clerical reductions and the use of volunteers to replace paid teacher aides in areas such as the Audio-Visual department. Additional funds would be filtered into a Teacher's Institute for the approximately 304 full-time teachers in the Andover school system and for plans such as the Paideia proposal and the Curriculum Instruction plan.

The consensus of the fellow committee members was that budget negotiations were in the final hours and it was too late to propose major school budget changes.

"I can't argue with the fact that we need re-tooling and training for our teachers." School Committee member Michael Giammusso told Birnbach. "But I would not be comfortable at this point in making budget revisions of up to $300,000."

Giammusso was referring to the $450,000 cost or an estimated 2.8 percent of the overall budget that Birnbach estimated would be required to get the Teacher's Institute into being.

"You have brought about some interesting questions that we could begin to look at in the future," School Committee Chairman Donald W. Robb said.

"We can not use the same yardsticks that we have used in the past, the critical thinking and decision making of students in the 21st Century will be an important issue." Supt. Kenneth Seifert informed Robb. "We can not be lulled into complacency. We need to modernize and invest some risk capital."

Change will take time and must be a deliberate effect involving re-allocation of funds, School Committee member Susan Poore said.

"We do need to modernize in a deliberate way over a period of time," Poore said. "This year's budget reflects a significant seven percent increase. We should allocate our resources over various line items in the budget. We should look toward not spending money on other things within the town and spend it on our schools."

Standing from left, Selectman Gerald Silverman, Jean Salazar, voter service chairman for the League of Women Voters of Andover, Charles Wesson, selectman, and June Blake, of the League of Women Voters, at the Candidates' Coffee last Saturday at the Andover Savings Bank. Townspeople were given the chance to meet all six incumbent candidates who are running unopposed. The four pictured are viewing a voting card used in the new punching unit for marking ballots which will be used for the first time in Andover's upcoming election.

Pack 72 Annual Pinewood Derby

Cub Scouts of Pack 72 of the Free Christian Church held their annual Pinewood Derby Monday night. Parents and race fanatics watched and cheered as 19 scouts (14 cub scouts and 5 tiger cubs) as they entered their wide variety of homemade racing cars. Racers were eliminated one by one and by the end of the night a single winner convinced all he has the fastest car. John will compete later this year against other scouts from other cub packs in a major Derby Race; Ten-year-old Jennifer Dauber cheers her favorite car on; Mike Mano and his father, John Mano, get their car ready as they give the other racers a serious watch; Cubmaster Charlie Cutler officially starts the race; Cub Scouts who received awards at the annual Blue and Gold Banquet: Front row, Brian Marshall, Bobcat badge award, Derek Regan, Keith Robertson, Peter Bolway and Ben Weiner, all received wolf badge awards. Top row, Deron Evans-Brown, God and Family medal award and Bear badge award, Mike Mano, John Zimmer and Mark Cutler all received Bear badge awards; the audience watches a couple of cars cross the finish line; Scouts help a fellow scout prepare his car for racing.

Now We Know

Several dissertations in this space have asked where all the funds are going that have been funnelling into the town treasury through user fees, increased permit fees, additional revenue from continued industrial and residential development, etc.

There has never been an answer, simply an occasional reply from an individual selectman, explaining the whys and wherefores of municipal operations.

But the action of selectmen this week certainly gives some indication of why we need new revenues--to keep pace with corporate giants in rewarding our administrators.

Monday night, selectmen not only renewed the contract for the town manager but also awarded him, Kenneth Mahony, a six-plus percent salary increase, bringing his annual reward for faithful service to $65,000.

The Governor of the Commonwealth is paid $75,000.

So now we know why all this additional funding is necessary.

This is not to say that the manager is not doing a decent job in administering the town, nor that he should be overlooked when the matter of annual salary review is undertaken.

But, it would seem that there should be a more reasonable increase in compensation than the one handed out Monday night. Along with the new contract and salary increase was the proviso that the salary rate would go to $70,000 a year hence.

Included in the new salary provisions is a $3,000 reward for negotiating with department heads.

Such negotiation should be the easiest of all. The administrator simply tells the department head he or she is doing a good or a bad job and the salary next will be such and such. Any dissatisfaction registered could very readily be accompanied by a see you later, the job will be advertised in the morning.

The manager has assistants, purchasing agents, personnel administrators, department heads, etc. It is a far cry from the original organizational chart provided Andover citizens who opted for the manager system some 25 or more years ago, even granting that times have changed and the town and responsibilities have increased.

This action having been taken, one can safely say that within a period of a few months adjustments will be made to the salary of another administrator, namely the superintendent of schools.

His salary was increased to $65,000 this past year, which puts him in a dead heat with the town manager. No school committee has ever stood for that since the inception of the new charter in 1958.

So can one anticipate a new salary rate of probably $72,000 for that position just to insure that the manager doesn't get too far ahead?

Is it any wonder no one wants to run for these jobs anymore. After all, how can one hope to keep up the pace of rewarding excellence.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — March 1911

Andover is to have a new and up-to-date dry goods store in the large block of new stores provided by Barnard Block, and apparently our people are fortunate in the charactor of the man who has decided to establish this new business.

Those who attended the lecture given by "Buffalo Jones" in the Chapel last Tuesday evening heard one of the most remarkable lectures given of its kind ever in the town of Andover. From beginning to end Col. Jones' stories and pictures of his marvelous work in Africa were without parallel. His stories and anecdotes kept the large audience which was in attendence in a state of marvel at the feats accomplished.

During the severe rainstorm last week a bad leak was discovered in the Stowe School roof.

Victor Asoian of West Andover has purchased an automobile truck in which he carries daily to Boston a large quantity of milk.

The many friends of William Faulkner, who resides on Maple Avenue, will be pleased to know that he has been promoted to assistant supervisor of the Marland Mills. Mr. Faulkner has been a hard and conscientious worker and fully deserves the promotion.

50 Years Ago — March 1936

The TOWNSMAN'S first venture with broadcasting election returns by radio met with considerable interest last Monday night. Is is as far as is known, the first time that a small town weekly in this part of the country has attempted to provide this service.

Roy E. Hardy was elected selectman and assessor Monday, by a landslide majority in the biggest political upheaval of recent years. Dr. J.J. Daly, was defeated for re-election. Mr. Hardy's election was not a surprise but few immagined that the plurality could be so great for re-election. Dr. Daly received 1411 votes while Mr. Hardy's total was 3013, a margin of 1602. For assessor Mr. Hardy received 2978 against Dr. Daly's 1375.

Walter L. Cassidy of 40 York St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cassidy, was a surprised and happy boy Thursday, when he received a bronze medal through the mail from the Massachusetts Humane Society. The medal was a reward for his act of bravery in saving a life. Last summer young Gerard Twomey of 20 Haverhill St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah J. Twomey, was swinging on a rope which hung from a branch of a tree over the Shawsheen river when he lost his grip on the roof and fell in. Walter and his other little friends were on the bank when Walter missed Gerard. Gerard was going down for the third time, but although the current was strong Walter plunged in with his clothes on and brought Gerard to safety.

"Better Films" was the subject of and interest talk given Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Andover Parent Teacher Association. Mrs. Bernadine Sabean, chairman of the Division of Motion Pictures of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, emphasized the great influence that motion pictures have on children in the impressionable stage.

By Rep. Sue Tucker

"Safe Roads Act"

A question I hear frequently: "What is state government going to do about drunk driving?" An intensive three-year effort to fight drunk driving has shown some success. However, it has also highlighted shortcomings in our laws that must be corrected if we are to make significant headway in eliminating this tragedy.

For all the increased enforcement and education campaigns, we still read daily about shameful personal tragedies often caused by repeat offenders. Our present laws, due to vague and inexact definitions, allow for loopholes and difficulty in identifying repeat offenders.

"The Safe Roads Act," submitted by the Governor and soon to be considered by the House, clarifies the law and simplifies prosecution by relying solely on Breathalyzer readings. If this bill becomes law, driving with a .10 or more blood alcohol content will be a crime. Period. No longer will the prosecution have to "prove" a driver is under the infuence. This provision recognizes the overwhelming medical and scientific evidence that, although different individuals with different body weights must consume different amounts of alcohol to reach .10, all drivers are impared at .10 and have lost at least a quartter of their normal driving ability.

Furthermore, prosecutors will have seven days to investigate previous offenses and "paper certification" of prior offenses will be allowed. These provisions will help insure that multiple offenders are charged and sentenced appropriately.

The "Safe Roads Act" closes other loopholes and increases penalties related to drunk driving, particularly when bodily injury is caused. For example, weekend sentences for drunk drivers will be eliminated and suspended sentences will be almost impossible to obtain.

Finally, a small but significant section of this bill makes victims' compensation available for the first time to drunk driving victims. The notion of victims' rights and compensation is gaining favor in legislatures and courts. By including it in this bill, we are making a statement about the seriousness of this crime.

The "Safe Road Act" has united a diverse group of supporters, and I do not expect serious controversy when this bill reaches the House floor. Nevertheless, I am interested in comments from those who work with these laws on a daily basis as to what effect these changes will have on public safety.

Call or write Rep. Sue Tucker, R. 473-G, State House, Boston, 02133 (722-2070).

Warriors Knocked-out

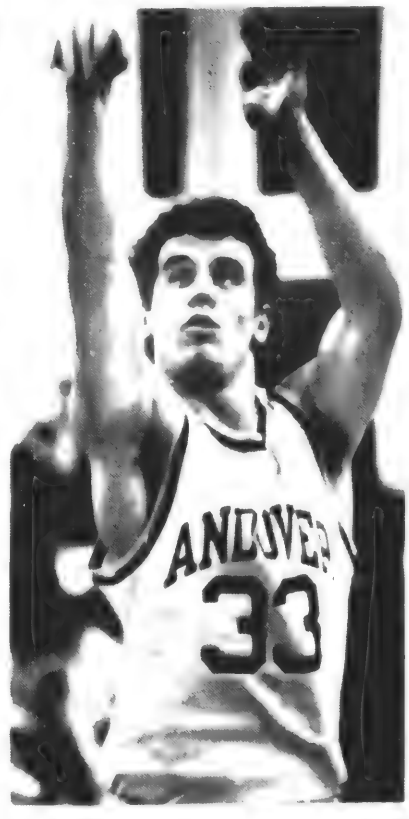

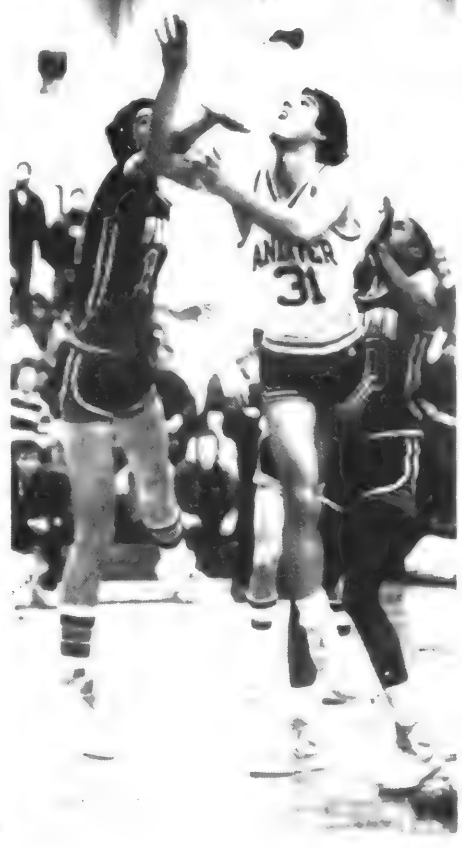

The Andover High Warriors kept their tourney hopes alive by beating Woburn 73-71 in overtime last Wednesday but lost in double overtime, 84-82, against Reading last Friday; knocking them out of the '86 tournament season. Pictures are from last Wednesday's victory game. Photos clockwise from upper left: Darren Currier takes an off balance shot as he goes in for the layup; Tim Perry cuts a sharp corner as he heads for the hoop; John Perry fights under the board with two Woburn players; John Perry sinks the winning free throw; Andover High cheerleaders entertain during half-time.

Reading Scores At Buzzer To End Warrior Season

By Michael Muldoon

A Reading layup with no time left in the second overtime eliminated the Andover High School boys' hoop team from the state tourney. Andover reached the semifinals by beating Woburn in a similarly thrilling overtime squeaker.

Two Tim Perry free throws with :24 left in overtime gave Andover a 73-71 victory over Woburn. Woburn missed a layup at the buzzer which would have sent the game into a second o.t. The Tanners held a 35-31 halftime edge and increased the lead to six early in the fourth period.

Perry then took control. He scored eight points in five minutes and the see-saw affair was deadlocked 64-64 with 1:00 remaining. Doug Rotondi's clutch jumper put Andover ahead, but Woburn's two free throws with :11 left forced the o.t.

T. Perry scored 31 points, Currier 14, Rotondi 13, Klopacz 6, Tucker 4, J. Perry 3 and Bartley 2.

Reading sank a layup at the buzzer to beat Andover 84-82 in double o.t. before a packed house at Andover's Dunn Gym.

Reading shot the lights out formost of the first half. They allowed Andover to cut a 14-point lead to seven, 41-34 at the intermission. Soph John Perry's spirited play ignited the Warriors in the second half. Darren Currier's free throw gave the Blue and Gold its first lead 63-62. Andover was up 68-64 with 2:16 left when Reading scored the game's final four poiints to send the game into o.t.

Neither team scored in the final minute of the first o.t. The Rockets held a four-point lead at the :25 mark. Tim Perry's jumper cut the lead to two and John Perry came up with a big steal and hoop with :13 remaining.

Reading released the game-winnign shot as time expired. The win was especially sweet for Reading because Andover eliminated them from the state tourney last year on a last-second Perry basket.

Midgets Outplayed

Salem, N.H., dominated play and cruised to an easy 7-2 win over the Andover Midgets. The first period ended with Salem ahead 2-1. Sean Lambert finished a nice passing play from Chris Patten and Matt Alden to register Andover's goal. During the second period, Salem assaulted the Andover goal with breakaways, 2-on-0s and 2-on-1s. The result was four unanswered goals and a 6-1 Salem lead entering the third period. Hardworking Matt Aldens cored an unassisted goal early in the third period to bring the score to 6-2. Salem scored again late in the third period to make the final score 7-2.

Warrior Icemen Close Most Succesful Season In Tourney

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High hockey team completed its most successful season in a decade and a half last Saturday, bowing to Middlesex League champion Reading 9-2 in an Eastern Mass. Division I North Tournament first-round game at Northeastern University's Matthews Arena.

The Golden Warriors qualified for the tourney for the first time in 16 years by hammering Lawrence High 10-0 in their regular-season finale.

AHS also dropped a pair of late-season decisions to undefeated Merrimack Valley League champ Chelmsford (6-3) and Lawrence Central (3-1), while beating Dracut (7-4) in their only confrontation of the year.

Andover completed the campaign with a 9-6-2 overall record.

In addition, several Andover players were chosen to compete in the annual league All-Star Game at which time head coach Charlie Donovan was named MVHL "Coach-of-the-Year" for his efforts directing the Golden Warriors to the tourney.

Juniors Glenn Allard and Chris Sapuppo, two of the All-Star performers, shared the Andover lead in scoring with 22 points apiece. Right wing Allard did it with 11 goals and 11 assists, while defenseman/forward Sapuppo had two goals and a team-high 20 assists.

Mark Neaves, who netted one of the tourney goals against Reading, paced the club in goals with 12.

Regular Season

Dave Bartle broke a 3-3 tie late in the high-scoring first-period against Dracut, and the Warriors dominated from that point en route to their 7-4 triumph.

Earlier first-period goals had been deposited by junior center Jeff McNeil, Glenn Allard and Bartle.

Mark Neaves collected the lone goal of the middle stanza, and third-period insurance tallies were netted by McNeil (powerplay) and junior center Steve Donovan.

Hugh Maginnis, Chris Sapuppo and Brian Costello passed out two assists apiece while Matt Young, John Gangi, George Heseltine, Bartle, Donovan and Neaves added single set-ups.

Andover finished with a wide 42-22 shooting edge, All-Star goalie Gregg Najjar making 18 saves in the AHS net.

Chelmsford defeated Andover 6-3 for the second time, blowing this game open in similar fashion with three rapid-fire goals late in the middle period.

Matt Young gave the Golden Warriors a short-lived 1-0 lead at 6:50 of the opening period, but Chelmsford rallied on goals by Mark Dearborn (unassisted) and Gary Bruno (powerplay).

Glenn Allard converted a Mark Neaves' feed at 8:04 of the second stanza to tie it 2-2, but Bill

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo. MARCH 6, 1986

Historic Agreement Reached

Readers who have been following this column for some time know that the business of video programming and distribution is a complex one. There are many players; individuals may have interests in areas which seem to directly compete, and the whole basket is driven by the intangible forces of advertising, or lack thereof.

Perhaps readers also remember my recent series entitled "Value of Basic," which began "I will speak to you on a subject you will not hear many cable people talk about - broadcast television. I will address it in a way you won't hear from cable often either - favorably."

You may not have known that cable and broadcast television have been embroiled in a regulatory struggle with each other, with the government throwing in their two cents whenever possible. I have always seen this as having a negative impact on both sides, and saw a future where the viewer gained from cooperation.

Tentative agreement has been reached. What does it mean for you? More next week.

Perry, who missed two games, had the best average (13.0).

Ballardvale, 53-27

Trailing 14-10 after one quarter and holding a slender 21-20 advantage at halftime, Ballardvale went on a game-breaking 18-0 third-period run to wrap this one up.

Bill Lambers, who notched all his points in the second half, led three BU performers into double figures with 12.

Division scoring champ Brian Worcester contributed 11 points, Doug Prugh 10, Bart Parker 8, John Hess 6, Scott Adams 4 and Mike Nelligan 2.

Mark Leinson led the TE charge with 9 points, Jason Weiner and Steve Gack added 5 apiece, Jeremy Marmer 4, Mike Forlizzi 2 and Dave Blass 2.

Scott Goddess and Craig Flashenburg also played well for Temple.

St. Robert's C, 37-36

This intra-church battled between St. Robert's C and B was close throughout, B leading 10-6 after one, the score knotted 16-16 at intermission, and C inched ahead 24-22 after three.

Dan Fay and Mike Talty guided St. Robert's C, playing without Matt Perry, as they pocketed 12 and 11 points respectively.

Ed Sheehan delivered 6 points, Marc Selvitelli 5, Matt Moynihan 2 and Dan Moynihan a free throw.

Mike Kelley was game-high for SRB, pouring through 16 points including eight in the fourth quarter.

St. Augustine A, 22-17

St. Augustine A broke a 17-17 deadlock with a 5-0 burst in the final two minutes, handing tough-luck South the setback.

South had led 6-2 after one quarter and 8-6 at halftime.

Andy Collins was game-high marksman with 12 points for St. Augustine A, Mike LeBreck contributed 5, Ryan LeGrow 2, Steve Mollineaux 2 and Brett Cox a free throw.

Avery's two goals and one by Bruno within an 82-second span put the Lions in command for good.

Steve Donovan and Chelmsford's Rick Tramonte traded goals 32 seconds apart in the final period.

Jeff McNeil, Brian Costello and Glenn Allard added one assist each to Neaves' pair.

Najjar once again was in net, making 33 saves as Chelmsford held a 39-25 shooting advantage.

The 3-1 loss to Central Catholic saw the Red Raiders outshoot Andover, 35-18, and Brett Abel stymie the AHS offense after Mark Neaves put the locals ahead 1-0 just 1:02 into the contest.

Jeff Marggraf, Eric Antkowiak and Jeff Dandretta were the CCHS marksmen in a game punctuated by 18 penalties (nine aside).

Glenn Allard registered the lone Andover assist, and Bob Pothier played well in the Warriors' net with 32 saves.

The tourney-clincher against Lawrence was never in doubt, seven players contributing to the 10-goal assault.

Dave Bartle notched a three-goal hat trick, Glenn Allard added two goals, and single markers were netted by Mark Neaves, Jeff McNeil, Brian Costello, Matt Young and Rob Stoltz.

Chris Sapuppo passed out three assists, Jeff Kittleson, George Heseltine and Steve Donovan two each, and solo set-ups went to Allard, Bartle and Costello.

Bob Pothier notched the team's second shutout of the season.

Tournament

Andover stayed with Reading for the first 11 minutes, at which time the score was tied 1-1 and the shots were even 8-8.

But the Rockets notched two goals within 28 seconds during the 12th minute, then added four goals in the middle stanza to grab a commanding 7-2 lead.

The game disintegrated into an exchange of penalties, with 36 infractions whistled including two misconducts, two majors and four doubleminors.

Brian Costello pocketed the first Andover goal, circling behind the Reading defense and taking a pass from Matt Young for a close-in connection at 8:29 of the opening period.

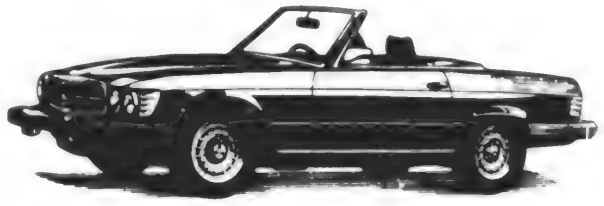

Mark Neaves added the second red-lighter at 12:46 of the middle period, defenseman Dave Curtis assisting on the 20-foot slapshot that beat Rockets' goalie Joe MacKeil cleanly.

Pucksters Take Two

The Squirt B hockey team continued its winning ways for the third consecutive weekend. It improved its record of the previous two weekends (a win and a tie each weekend) with wins on Saturday and Sunday. The wins also enabled the team to widen its hold on first place.

Andover beat a determined and talented Lynn team 6-3 on Satuday at Danvers Twin Rinks. Andover's play was highlighted by three goals from Ben Ristuccia and single goals from Sean Donahue, Brian Flanagan and Mike Lombard. Donahue and Mark Pirri had two assists each while John Brodbine, Richie Enos and Mike Lombard had one assist each. Phil Smith was very strong in net and the defense, although undermanned, played very strong.

The team defeated a scrappy and hustling Salem, N.H., team 6-2. Jeff Pothier was on his game in goal and made key and timely saves time and gain. The defense of Brodbine, Enos, Smith and Heather Norton combined to give Pothier good support. The offense was again led by a "hat trick" by Ristuccia (his second in two days) and single goals by Donahue, Ryan Doyle and Brian Flanagan. Assists were awarded to Pirri (2), Donahue, Enos, Flanagan and Lombard.

The only sad footnote to the weekend was the fact that Doug Guittarr, the team's fine coach, will leave this week to attend basic training in the U.S. Marine Corps. He will be missed by the players and their parents and they wish him good luck.

Egg whites will whip better at room temperature. Separate the eggs while cold (the yolks will have less tendency to break), then let stand a bit before beating.

Cheerleading In Jeopardy

Sixty young cheerleaders may not have a place to display their talents in 1986. The Junior cheerleading Program, which is part of the Andover Junior Football League, may fade for lack of adult volunteers. Bobby-Jo Morris, who along with daughter, Sally, launched the program in 1980, retired last November and so far has found no one to take over.

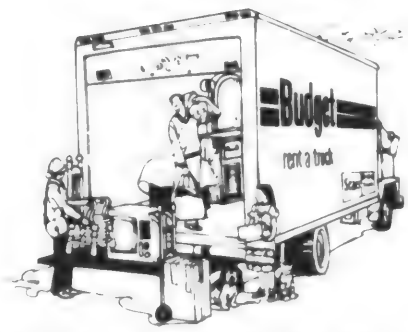

In an effort to ease the burden for a new team of leaders, Mrs. Morris has divided the task into seven areas of responsiblity: director, registration and rosters, coaching supervisor, spring practice season, equipment manager, fall season and competition. She can supply job descriptions for each section.

Anyone interested in helping with this program is asked to call Mrs. Morris, 6 Russett Lane, for more information.

St. Robert's Girls Champions

Joanne McNamara netted a basket with 13 seconds to play lifting St. Robert's C to a title-clinching 25-23 victory over Ballardvale United to highlight action in the Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Girls' Division last week at the West Elementary School gym.

In other play, Christ Church secured second place with a 17-11 triumph over St. Robert's A and St. Robert's B trimmed St. Augustine's A 20-14.

The ACBL Girls' Division will hold its annual foul shooting contest on Friday, March 14, from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the West Elementary School gym. Engraved trophies will be awarded to the top two finishers.

BU tied it at 17-17 after three, Lindsey Sweeney pocketing four points in the third stanza.

Sheila Camillus hit a 12-foot shot to put SRC ahead 23-21 with one minute left, but Melissa Salazar converted two clutch free throws to deadlock it again at 23-23. And then McNamara hit the big basket.

McNamara was game-high with 11 points, Camillus chipped in 8, Diane Castignoli 5 and Andrea Georgian a foul shot.

Sweeney led the diversified BU offense with 8 points, Salazar had 6, Wendy Darling, Heather Rotondi, Linda Banzi and Erin McCloskey contributed fieldgoals while Lisa Hayes had a free throw.

Christ Church, 17-11

Christ Church outscored St. Robert's A 8-2 in the final quarter to nail down the win.

Down The Years

best letter that contains suggestions on "How to Promote Highway Safety in the Town of Andover."

25 Years Ago — March 1961

Next Monday is the day of decision. Candidates for Selectman and School Committee and those interested in the fate of fluoridation are building their campaigns to a peak late this week, attempting to influence voters who will cast ballots March 6.

There has been little apparent interest in the campaign—yet it is estimated that as many as 6,000 of the town's 9,855 voters may turn out. Many undoubtedly will get out to vote on the fluoridation issue which has become the liveliest issue of the campaign.

Sidney P. White, a long-time member of the town government, is trying to unseat one of the two Selectmen. James D. Wilson and Phillip K. Allen.

Robert V. Deyermond, 91 Elm St., has received a message of thanks from President Dwight D. Eisenhower, in response to his letter of "Thanks and gratitude" for his long and honored service.

The Andover Recreation Council has been refused permission to use the high school for its adult classes. Supt. Edward I. Erickson told the School Board that such a step would mean heating the entire building and that he believes it isn't a logical thing to do.

Sheri and Rena (the proprietors)...and me (the owner).

Young Fashions: Everything but the Eggs

"Y'know what I like about spring?

"I like all the colors.

"Spring colors are full of sun and smiles you can almost taste.

"I especially like the way they make me—being your basic black-and-white fellow—stand out here at Young Fashions.

"And it isn't easy to stand out in a place where everything's outstanding.

"Take, for instance, that Esprit sportswear. Those classy layers. The pants, and the big shirts, and the sweat shirts, all tied up with a big, boxy jacket—in colors so yummy, they remind me of jelly beans. Ahhh!

"Outstanding. But there's more. Young Fashions has bathing suits and matching cover-ups for boys and girls. Casual outfits—like my own favorite teddy bear print coordinates from Eagle's Eye. Hand-made clothes that are really one-of-a-kind. Like those Lucky Girl quilted overalls with the little ducky sewn on the front, and their own matching shirt and jacket. Or that little black leotard with the ballet shoe applique, and its own pink satin tutu—umm,umm! (I got one foot in it before Sheri convinced me that a tutu might not be—well, quite fitting for a panda of my stature. Sigh...)

"But you know what's really great about Young Fashions? The Easter stuff. We've got everything a kid could dream of—spiffy suits for the guys; special dresses designed by heavy hitters like Christian Dior for the young ladies. Everything, in sizes from the teeny to pre-teen. I mean, everything for Easter.

"Except, maybe, the eggs.

"Young Fashions also has First Communion dresses—whole outfits, right down to the white nylons and gloves.

"But the greatest thing about Young Fashions is that everybody's just as warm and cuddly as me. If you need help co-ordinating an outfit, we don't growl at you. We'll even giftwrap and mail what you buy for you.

"Not bad, huh? We're open 9:30-5:30 Mon-Sat. And we're right in downtown Andover, at 93 Main Street. Just look for the gorgeous Panda in the window.

"That's—ahem—me."

Amore Hearing Consultants: Dealing in Everyday Miracles

It is tiny—a flesh-colored plug no bigger than a tooth-paste-tube cap. But it can change the quality of a person's life.

"This is the 'canal' hearing aid," says Theresa Manzi Amore, certified Hearing Aid Audiologist and owner of Amore Hearing Consultants of Lawrence. The device is all but lost in her palm. "It fits into the ear canal and is virtually undetectable. The President wears one in each ear."

Mrs. Amore deals with small everyday miracles like the canal aid and the slightly larger "all in the ear" model, completely contained in the ear. In her 30 years in the field, she has witnessed a revolution, both in hearing aid technology and in the public's attitude toward hearing loss. "When I started out, it was considered a catastrophe," she says. "People now are much more well-educated about hearing."

When Mrs. Amore began work, the standard hearing aid was a cumbersome affair connected to a body-carried battery pack. Now, 6 out of 10 patients wear the "all in the ear"; others wear canal aids, aids with behind-the-ear attachments, or eyeglass models. The proper aid for a person, says Mrs. Amore, depends largerly upon his or her degree and type of loss.

Amore Hearing Consultants works with all ages. Mrs. Amore welcomes Medicaid patients; she also tested hearing at St. Augustine's School for more than 25 years. To maintain her Board certification and keep ahead in her field, she must take courses every year.

Although as a Hearing Aid Audiologist she tests hearing and prescribes, fits and repairs aids, Mrs. Amore is quick to emphasize that her skills complement those of medical ear specialists—they do not replace them. She believes strongly that patients who suspect hearing loss should see a competent specialist; in fact, she will recommend area specialists for patients if necessary. "I would never put an aid on anyone who can be helped by an ear operation," she says.

Amore Hearing Consultants, 101 Amesbury St., Lawrence, is open 9-5; Wed and Sat. 9-12. Phone 682-4730 for appointments. Mrs. Amore can also supply information about the new Cochlear Implant operation.

Further requirements for information: After the opportunity for review by other boards and agencies, the Planning Board may require the applicant to supply more specific information about the proposed development, as per questions and comments of the reviewing boards and agencies. Such additional information shall be submitted within ten (10) days after notice by the Planning Board.

d. Criteria for Planning Board decision: The Board may grant a Special permit for land use within the watershed protection overlay district under Section VI.P.7 of this Bylaw only if it finds that the applicant has met the general requirements of Section VIII.C. of this bylaw and that the applicant has demonstrated the following:

(1) that the plan will preserve and protect the surface and groundwater resources in the watershed protection overlay district for the health, safety, and welfare of the Town's people;

(2) that the plan will protect the community from the detrimental use and development of land and waters within the watershed protection overlay district;

(3) that the design standards in Section VI.P.6 above have been met;

The Planning Board shall impose any conditions and restrictions required to mitigate any potential damage to surface and groundwater resources, and, in reaching its decision, will consider the simplicity, reliability, and effectiveness of these mitigating measures and the damage likely to result if these measures were to fail.

If the Planning Board disagrees with the recommendations of the Conservation Commission or the Board of Health, the reasons shall be stated in writing.

facing uncertain futures; there were "rumors" about their potential conversion and use. "What we're trying to do," said Jeton, "is establish retail use on the first floor."

After Jeton's explanation, Scileppi capitulated. "I think it's a great idea," he said.

The vote to support was 4-0, with Dalton abstaining due to professional interests.

The public discussion on the Planning Board's proposed Multi-Family District was a scaled-down, but still heated, version of the board's earlier public hearing on the article.

Although Bradshaw considered the article "a conservative approach to a need that exists in town"—given that the area proposed for rezoning contains many multi-family dwellings, and that homes which would qualify for the changes could now be converted by special permit—a few Andover residents at the meeting vehemently disagreed. "This would be disastrous to the town," Elaine Katz announced emphatically. Andover is now fair game for developers from all over the country, she said; to a developer looking for profit, "every closet becomes an apartment."

She added that streets in town are now crowded; with the increased density in the zone, which comprises 77 homes on the north, east and south edges of the General Business District, "We'll be killing ourselves with too much traffic."

Chairman Dalton disagreed. "I don't think we're doing this," he said. "We're trying to provide housing for people who are not rich."

Selectman Byrne asked how residents of the area had reacted to the proposal.

Bradshaw answered that her board had not heard from many current owners of property in the proposed zone. "We've just heard mostly from people who were afraid of who might move in there," she said.

Dalton voiced his support, calling the article "courageous."

"That's conservatively courageous, Bill," said selectman Scileppi.

"I think the idea stinks," objected Ann Loosigian of High Plain Road. She said that she wanted Andover to retain its "charm", and challenged the board to tell her the "real purpose of the article."

Answered selectman Gerry Silverman, "To supply affordable housing."

Loosigian argued that rents resulting from conversions in the area would not be affordable.

Katz suggested that, if the board wanted affordable—i.e., low- and middle-income—housing in the Multi-Family Zone, it should restrict rents to those designations.

"It's private housing," said Silverman. "You can't do that."

The vote to support the article was unanimous.

The board also heard a presentation on the proposed Watershed Protection Overlay District by Fran Fink, a planner who had been hired to study the issue of land use in areas surrounding and draining into the town's water supplies.

Chairman Dalton told Fink and Planning Board members that he was "impressed—without a doubt, the protection of our drinking water is the most important issue before this town." He noted, however, that Robert McQuade, head of thelocal Department of Public Works, had raised objections to a number of the items in the article.

With one month to go until Town Meeting, said Dalton to McQuade, "I want to see a plan on the warrant that has the unanimous support of you and the Planning Board." Accordingly, the board did not vote on the article.

Also considered by the selectmen were Planning Board articles dealing with:

- a zoning change for two properties on Bartlet Street to G.B. (approved);
- requirements for special permits issued by the board (approved);
- procedures for site plan reviews (approved);
- parking lot regulations for multi-family homes and the Industrial D zone (approved);
- General Business landscape buffer requirements(approved);
- parking lot design standards (postponed action);
- sidewalks and curbing for Ballardvale (postponed);
- a proposed zoning change for Chandler Road (postponed);
- a private article for inclusion of hotels and motels in the Industrial G zone (postponed);
- private re-zoning articles for Central and Chesnut Streets (postponed).

Also at the meeting, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony announced that a truck exclusion has been approved for Clark Road to Lowell Junction. A stoplight proposed for the end of the road will not be installed.

DEPOSIT PROTECTION

When a real estate buyer and seller agree on the sale of land, it is common practice for the buyer to make a deposit to be applied to the purchase price. Normally this deposit -sometimes called "earnest money" is placed in the real estate agent's escrow account until closing

The deposit serves many purposes In addition to protecting the buyer by demonstrating that he is serious about purchasing the land, and therefore inducing the seller not to offer the real estate for sale to anyone else, it also protects the seller in case the buyer does not live up to his end of the sale contract Should the purchaser fail to buy the land as agreed, he will usually forfeit the deposit money. In this way, the seller is compensated for the likelihood of a missed sale because he took his real estate off the market

The deposit of the earnest money in the real estate professional's escrow account also protects the buyer. If the seller cannot or does not convey the land - or there appears a title defect which cannot be reasonably cured - the deposit money will be refunded from escrow

HELP YOUR BATHROOM SELL YOUR HOME

Very few people will buy a house because they're blown away by fantastic bathrooms. Baths are among the features that sellers tend to neglect when they're preparing their homes for prospective buyers. Buyers do, however, react to baths that are not well cared for, because these rooms are a reflection of the overall condition of the property.

While your home is on the market, keep each bathroom spotless. Get out the scouring powder, mildew remover, glass and tile cleaner and your scrub brush. If necessary, recaulk. A new shower curtain, bath mat and nice smelling soap can help give the buyer on more small positive reason for liking your home and perhaps deciding to buy it!

Many purchasers see plumbing as a potential major expense, and they get nervous about dripping faucets, loose tiles, running toilets and peeling paint on the ceilings of the baths themselves or the rooms under them. As a part of your premarketing preparations, make sure your plumbing is working properly and that any cosmetic damage coused by former leaks has been repaired.

For professional advice on buying or selling a home, contact Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate. Call us at 685-5000 or stop by our office at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

School Committee Eliminates User Fees For Activities

By Lisa Waterman

In a majority vote, the Andover School Committee eliminated user fees for students participating in interscholastic sports and music during Tuesday's meeting of the School Committee.

User fees were introduced into the Andover School System in the Fall of 1983 to try and introduce money into extracurricular areas that would feel the crunch of Prop. 2½ in an attempt to maintain services, according to Supt. Kenneth Seifert.

User fees were often difficult to collect and brought resentment from some parents whose children were participating in after-school sports, Andover's Athletic Director Richard Bourdelais informed the School Committee.

User fees produce $33,000 annually, $14,000 from music fees and $19,000 from athletic fees into the school budget.

Additional funds in the school budget may result from the introduction of night sports events. Andover High School football brought in an additional $2,000 profit in gate receipts and soccer matched expenses, due to night games, according to Athltic Director Richard Bourdelais.

"There is an inconsistencey in users fees. Why should a fee be paid by a student who chooses to kick a soccer ball as opposed to playing chess, both are after-school activities." Seifert said.

User fees can be officialy withdrawn from the school budget by the School Committee, because it was an internal consideration and will not require an additional vote by Town Meeting, according to Supt. Seifert.

School Committee member David Birnbach voted to pass on the question. Prior to the vote, Birnbach had been discussing his prior proposal of redirecting funds to allow for a Teacher's Institute and more funding for the Curriculum Instruction plan.

"I am getting mixed messages. Now I am hearing in the issue of the users fees that the committee is prepared to set their priorities, now I know it is possible." Birnbach said.

"We have voted to eliminate the users fees but now we have to look back at that $33,000 and decide where it will come from. I may come back and change my mind.

tries to do everything"—a trait that sometimes causes friction with others—his motives are always good.

Dalton said that he had heard criticisms of Mahony's communication techniques, "particularly where women are concerned," but added that he has seen Mahony grow in his communication skills within the last year.

Mahony will begin to serve under his second five-year contract in January of 1987.

Wedding Style Determines Outfits For Participants

Once You've decided to tie the knot you'll have to decide what type of wedding you want. Who or what decides if the wedding is to be formal, semiformal or informal?

Those decisions are usually up to the bride and groom and are often determined by the choice of wedding clothes they will wear and the site of the ceremony.

If the bride wears a long gown with a train, the ceremony is definitely formal. If the bride elects to wear only a veil with her gown, the ceremony can be considered to be semi-formal.

If the wedding is formal, what does the bridegroom wear?

In the daytime, a cutaway coat and striped trousers. Howver, in some contemporary weddings the groom will wear a white tailcoat, but traditionalists hold out for the gray cutaway.

For a contemporary evening formal ceremony, the groom may wear a black or white full dress (tailcoat) while the traditionalist will wear the classic white and tails.

If the wedding is semi-formal, what does the bridegroom wear?

For a traditional daytime wedding, a gray stroller with striped trousers.

For a contemporary daytime wedding, a tuxedo of his choice or an updated stroller.

For a traditional evening ceremony, a black tuxedo or a white dinner jacket. For a contemporary evening wedding, a tuxedo of his choice.

What do the ushers wear?

In a traditional ceremony, the same as the groom with the exception of the lapel flower which in the groom's case should be a sprig of something from the bride's bouquet.

In a contemporary wedding, the ushers may dress "a step down" from the groom. For example if the groom wears a tailcoat, the groomsmen may wear short coats.

What do the fathers of the bride and groom wear?

The same rules apply to the fathers as to the ushers.

Does the groom give a present to the bride?

As a rule, the gift of the wedding ring is considered to be sufficient. However, there is no rule against offering her a further token of devotion.

Does the groom give a gift to any of the wedding members?

Yes. Some small gift should be made to the ushers. Dress studs, cuff links, pocket jewelry or the like is appropriate. Those gifts serve as momentos of the occasion.

Who provides the bride's bouquet?

The groom buys his bride's bouquet and also the usher's bouttonierres.

Who gives the honorarium to the officiating clergy or judge?

the groom.

Best Man's Duties Keep Him Busy

The best man at a wedding has plenty to keep him busy. He must keep things going smoothly during the ceremony until after the newlyweds are off for their honeymoon. He also has some duties before the wedding.

During the ceremony he should:

- Help the groom dress.
- Get from him the clergy fee (in a white envelope) which should be turned over to the clergy in the vestry before the ceremony.
- Keep the wedding ring until it is needed.
- Assist the wedding party in getting to the reception.
- Make the first toast to the bride and groom at the reception and read any telegrams which may have arrived.
- Dance with the bride after she's danced with her new father-in-law, then dance with the mothers of the bride and groom.
- Help the groom change into his travel clothes and make certain that he has all the necessary passports, tickets, reservations, cash, charge cards, travelers' checks, keys, etc.
- Put the newlyweds' luggage into the car.
- Return any rented apparel.
- And send the bride's parents a telegram—in the groom's name—thanking them for the reception.

Before the wedding day, the best man should:

- Arrange for the bachelor dinner.
- Pick up the groom's gifts to the ushers.
- Help the groom plan the honeymoon trip by making phone calls, picking up tickets and handling reservations.
- Keep important documents in a safe place.
- Arrange hotel rooms for attendants and special guests.
- Pick up the wedding rings.
- Be responsible for taking the marriage license to the wedding rehearsal.

Brides Have Always Worn Pearls

A strand of cultured pearls adds a glowing touch to any bride. Brilliantly rich cultured pearls enhance the radiant bride's beauty on her wedding day as they always are a lustrous focal point to her outfit whenever they are worn.

In the future, the shimmering strand of cultured pearls may be loaned to a soon-to-be-wed sister, niece or cousin who appreciates the thoughtfulness of the old adage of something "old" and "borrowed' to complete her wedding attire.

Cherished for centuries, the precious pearl has been woven into numerous tales regarding its everlasting beauty and value.

The ancient Greeks believed that Aphrodite, the goddess of love and beauty, was born like a pearl out of a shell that was washed up from the sea. According to Roman mythology, Venus, the goddess of love, was born in a similar fashion.

In the East, the pearl represented love, gentleness, purity and compassion—a tradition carried into every part of the civilized world.

At one time pearls were the exclusive privilege of the nobel and wealthy. Julius Caesar invaded Britain in order to obtain a treasure of pearls, according to the Roman historian, Suetonius. After the invasion, Caeser presented a breast plate, set in pink pearls from the Conway River in Wales, to the goddess Venus Genetrix in her temple in Rome.

Throughout history royal women decorated themselves in pearls. Queen Nephretete of Egypt went to her wedding practically covered with pearls. Elizabeth I entwined pearls in her hair, wore them as necklaces and had them embroidered into her robes.

If you don't already own cultured pearl jewelry, why not purchase a strand of cultured pearls for your dreamed-about wedding day? Consider the neckline of the bridal gown when choosing an appropriate style:

High, round necklines can be adorned with either multiple strand collars or the classic single strand choker.

The most formal look would be a matinee or opera length necklace falling softly over the bosom; this style is equally alluring with a high-standing collar.

Deeper, scooped necklines are most luxurious with a bib of several strands of pearls falling from the base of the throat to the top of the gown's neckline.

Tips For Buying Wedding Gifts

When the bride and groom open their wedding gifts, they may be delighted with one silver gray ladle—but five may be a bit much.

Avoid the embarassment of giving the a gift the couple may not need or of selecting patterns of silver or china they don't like.

It's as simple as checking with area stores which maintain a bridal registry to find out their preferences. Today couples usually selects silver flatware first. Even if you can only afford one serving piece or a spoon or two they will be happily received by the couple.

The china pattern may be available in the newer three-piece place settings as well as the traditional five-piece setting. Consider coordinating or matching serving pieces such as oven-to-table-to-dishwasher items and china accessories for gourmet cooking, tatletop cooking and casual entertaining.

Once you have reviewed the couple's choices on the bridal registry, you may wish to select other items for their home such as room clocks, candlesticks and so on.

Are the bride and groom gourmet cooks, wine experts or lovers of the unique? You'll find accessories they will welcome at a local jeweler. And keep in mind the heirloom potential of any silver wedding gift.

When calculating the price of a wedding, don't overlook a small, but significant, cost—tipping.

If tips have not been included into the overall cost of the wedding, the bride's parents could find themselves scrambling for cash on the wedding day.

Of course, the less extravagant the wedding ceremony, the fewer the tips.

Following is a list from "Your Complete Wedding Planner" by Marjabelle Young Stewart (David McKay Company, Inc.) of those who are tipped, the amount they receive and who pays them:

• The caterer, hotel or club banquet manager and the bridal consultant receive 1 to 5 percent, but only if special services are offered. The reception host adds any special payment to the bill when it is payed.

• All servers, including waiters, waitresses, bartenders and table captains, receive 15 percent, plus 1 to 5 percent for captains if their fee is not included in the total bill. The reception host or hostess adds gratuities to the bill when paying it.

• Powder and coatroom attendants are tipped 50 cents per guest or a flat fee agreed on beforehand. The hosts add a flat fee to the bill when paying or tipping attendants immediately after the reception.

The florist, photographer, baker and musicians receive one to 15 percent only if special services are performed. The limousine driver is tipped 15 percent.

Civil ceremony officials such as judges, justices of the peace and city clerks are paid a flat fee, usually $10 is the minimum, but check first to see if the official is allowed to accept money. The bridegroom pays via the best man after the ceremony.

• Clergy receive a donation based on the time they have spent and the size of the ceremony. The bridegroom pays through his best man.

• Ceremony assistants such as altar participants and organists are paid from $5 to $25. The wedding host pays them directly after the wedding service. Check with clergy to see if the church cost covers the fee.

• If the reception is in the church, ask the church secretary what custodians and kitchen help should be paid.

If you need only a few drops of lemon juice, prick one end with a fork and squeeze the desired amount. Return the lemon to refrigerator and it will be almost as good as new.

Make Wedding Music Special

A line in the popular "Wedding Song" says, "Whenever two or more of you are gathered in his name, there is love."

There is also music.

No wedding is complete without it, but to have it meaningful to the couple, it takes a little advance planning and ingenuity.

Here are some other guidelines and suggestions to make every wedding and its reception truly special.

If the wedding is to be performed in a religious setting, consult with clergy or the church music director to determine what types of music are allowed. Many churches, inspired by contemporary services, are eager to accommodate personal music choices.

Resist the temptation to use musical selections just because you like them. No matter how beautiful or entertaining, if the song diverts attention from the ceremony, don't consider it.

When choosing a vocal piece, evaluate the lyrics. Do they say what you want to be said?

Invite friends who can sing or play musical instruments well to participate. Often, the more personalized you make the ceremony, the more meaningful it will be for everyone.

Position musicians and singers near the front and to the side of the pulpit where they can be heard without upstaging the bridal pair.

Many contemporary brides are choosing to stand at the head of the aisle while a special song is played, joining the groom as the song comes to an end.

Wedding Bouquets Have Special Meaning

Since ancient times when bunches of herbs were carried by brides under their veils, flowers have been an integral part of the wedding ceremony. The first bouquest were made of a mixture of chives, garlic and other strong herbs which warded off evil.

Traditionally though, flowers were symbols of fertility, however many flowers also have significances all their own.

The rose is a symbol of love and beauty. The orchid of beauty and the carnation of distinction. The white daisy symbolizes innocence and the orange blossom, fertility and happiness. Blue violets symbolize faithfulness and the blue bell, constancy.

Forget-me-nots mean true love, lily of the valley, happiness. The white lilac is a symbol of youthful innocence, red chrysanthemums of sharing and the gardenia of joy. Apple blossoms are a sign of better things to come. And Ivy stands for eternal fidelity and good luck.

Experts suggest that you consult a florist at least one month in advance and decide on colors and price. Bring along a piece of material from the wedding gown and attendants' gowns to match the flowers. Also, make sure you find out what flowers will be in season, since these will cost less. An another floral idea is to use silk flowers, which can be will be a keepsake. Silk flowers will cost more than real flowers.

Don't forget flowers for the mother of the bride and the groom's mother, boutonnieres for the men, bouquets for any female attendants and flowers for the altar and reception hall.

The Pacific Ocean is bluer than the Atlantic because the surface color of the Atlantic is screened by greater masses of microscopic plant and animal life.

Bridal Registry Gift List

Remember that the china and flatware you select will be used almost every day.

Bridal registry personnel suggest that the bride and groom-to-be take a lot of time pouring over dinnerware patterns before deciding on a pattern.

Should you register at a bridal registry for gifts such as china and silver? Most couples decide this makes gift giving easy for friends and relatives. A bridal registry is a free service offered by most large department and specialty stores. Bridal consultants advise registering as soon as you become engaged.

Make your registry choices as detailed as possible and include not only the dinnerware and flatware or silver patterns you have decided upon but also accessories. Below is a list of the items you may need in your new home from the February/March edition of "Modern Bride."

Use this list as a guide, noting the number of each item you would like. If either of you is living on your own you may already have some of these items.

An example is this handsome Chippendale wing chair. Its frame is a precise copy of an antique now owned by Hickory Chair. It was made in 1764 by a member of the Townsend family, distinguished colonial cabinetmakers of Newport, Rhode Island. John Townsend took great care and pride in his superb craftsmanship. Hickory Chair takes the same care and pride in reproducing this specimen of his work for our James River Collection.

Remember, to help your ring last don't wear it when doing rough work as diamonds can chip. Don't wear it when doing cleaning or laundry. Bleach can discolor the mounting. Have your jeweler check and clean your ring each year. When you're not wearing it, keep the ring in a jewel case.

Skin Care Tips For Brides-to-Be

Don't let honeymoon travel, excitement, sun and lack of sleep play havoc with your glowing bridal beauty.

Here are some tips that can help you retain your radiant look all during the honeymoon:

• Sunburn is the classic honeymoon horror. Take along a sunscreen that's even stronger than you normally use, and if you're in a tropical climate stay out of the midday sun altogether.

• Once your skin gets a rosy glow, you probably won't need any mankeup at all for daytime. If you'll be swimming and want to use mascara, be sure to choose a water-resistant type.

• For fun on gala evenings, go glamorous with eye makup. Just a little will make a big change if your normal look is natural. Try smokey blue or plum shadow blended up and out from the onto the browbone and a spot of highlighter on the inner corners and under the brow. If you like, draw a line in a darker right at the lashes; add mascara.

• Have a good haircut two weeks before the wedding so that your hair dries right into shape.

• Get enough sleep to avoid dark circles under your eyes. If circles do appear, dab on a little cover-stick or cream, dot a drop of foundation over it and blend with a sponge.
